concerns over the protection of their unique heritage within Riverside County and the integration of new development as it contrast with the historical elements, the sense of place, and strong community connections that are experienced in Highgrove. The content of these guidelines were initiated through a community survey issued to the community in May of 2009 and the draft guidelines were reviewed by the Municipal Advisory Council on June 23, 2009. Several responses were received and many concepts were incorporated into the final document. The construction of the design guidelines were developed through a working group that included EDA, the Planning Department, STK Architects, and community representatives. These guidelines shall be applied in conjunction with the Riverside Citywide Design Guidelines and Sign Guidelines and both shall take precedent over the Countywide Design Standards and Guidelines adopted in January of 2004. The Highgrove Design Guidelines are illustrated on the attached CD.
