Thank you Mr. Stone for trying to protect the conservatives in So. California. Although I live in Big Bear, I do most of my business down the mountain. I know these areas and typically find I'm talking to conservatives just like me and wonder how our state is in the state it's in. It's because a few of the major cities and economies are being strangled by liberals in addition to their position as sanctuary cities.

I support this and thank you.

Dont' forget about San Joaguin and Sacramento county. It is conservative and agricultural.
I am sure if your team put something out on web and other forms for those who refuse to use the world wide web you would get a huge response. Good luck and maybe we will have to move to South California, however, I would prefer East and West California with some southern counties that you included. Please take a look at the eastern counties of California.

Thank you,
Shirley

Supervisor Stone,
I read your awesome idea of removing ourselves from these left-wing leaders who are leading us to default.
I know it will be too much money to start, too much money to elect, and too much time to create; however, the newly develop state would create an unprecedented statement to the left-wing! I know also that this newly created state would flood the market with jobs because our newly created state would be pro-business again.

Subject: An idea whose time has come

Mr. Stone –

I have heard about the idea you are promoting of establishing a new state by carving out of from California the southern and eastern counties that tend to be less liberal and have different agendas than the northern counties plus Los Angeles County. I would like to suggest to you a more radical idea that would give counties more financial freedom from state government (and the federal government) an do so without having to establish a new state.

As you may or may not know, counties are the real seat of authority in America. The county sheriff is the highest law enforcement officer in the land as he is responsible for all life and property in his jurisdiction and he is the chief administrative officer of the courts. Similarly, the county holds the records to all property and enforces all liens, encumbrances and claims on property. This is under common law that came to America from England (I can send you references to substantiate these statements)

Unfortunately, after the 'Civil' War, the "Organic Act of 1781" established a corporation named United States and subsequently all states, counties, cities, utility and other districts, etc incorporated as subsidiaries of the United States for the purpose of establishing increased collateral against the national debt (you can look up Title 28, section 3002, paragraph 15 of the United States code to verify that the "United States" is a corporation) http://uscode.house.gov/download/pls/28C176.txt For this reason, Riverside County (the lawful land under common law) is distinctly different from THE COUNTY OF RIVERSIDE, the legal (not lawful) subsidiary corporate franchise of the STATE OF CALIFORNIA (not the California Republic) and the UNITED STATES (not the united States of America).

I apologize for the civics lesson, but it is necessary to understand that governments are created to serve the people and that the people have the most power at the county level under common law. Keep in mind that all property encumbrances including tax liens are enforced at the county level

Now for the idea: All taxes should be collected by counties with as many services as possible being administered at the local level and the people in each county should decide how much of their taxes should go to fund the operation of state and federal governments. In other words, health, safety, education, welfare, emergency services, law enforcement, housing, transportation, and possibly many other services can be best administered at the local level. Where statewide coordination is practical, counties can form statewide networks to cooperatively share resources and assimilate policies. Federal services could be even more limited (national defense, for example), since many states are large enough to function as a country (especially California). After the breakup of the USSR, each former states operates as its own country.

In my opinion, this idea is the only way America can be saved from dictatorial federal and state governments. The power is in the people and the local level is where the people can be active in the decision-making process.

When you consider that Riverside County is larger than 3 of the original colonies (Rhode Island, Deleware, and Connecticut) and the 1776 population of the colonies was only 1.5 times the 2009 population of Riverside County, it does not seem unreasonable to expect that a county such as Riverside could manage its own affairs. The great benefit to the people of the money flowing upwards instead of 'trickling down' is that they would be closer to the collecting, decision-making process, and disbursements instead of feeling like slaves to governments hundreds and thousands of miles away. In other words, the power could get back to the people.

So instead of another state, I suggest that your network of counties join hands in pursuing self government and throw the debts, state and federal fat, professional politicians, corruption, unworkable contracts and pensions and the weight of unnecessary agencies off your backs. You now have a media presence. You would be doing your country a great service to show how the power of self government can be brought back to the people.

I am eric-john in Ventura county.

Congratulations, Jeff Stone; Riverside County Supervisor

Having lived in both North and South California I often thought our 20 southern-most counties should become the separate state of South California. Our State being its current size has gotten just too big to manage, and too removed from local citizen scrutiny.

Any new U.S. States seem to always be added in pairs, like Alaska and Hawaii. Let's check with Texas and see if West Texas is ready to declare Its independence as a separate state also. We might entice a state-splitting "movement" to start there too. Do you suppose adding new States in "pairs" may have something to do with arranging the stars on "old glory" in even numbers?

The next "movement" could target the annexation of the States of Baja and South Baja. Then the aerospace industry would not have to transport their space vehicles to Florida to utilize a pronouncedly equatorial latitude launch pad.

Mr. Stone,

I am not in your district but I applaud you for your efforts to split your county away from CA. I really hope you succeed. This action will set an example for other CA counties oppressed by our legislature's burdensome regulations, taxes, high unemployment and wasteful spending. Best wishes to you, the Board and your county.

My son and his family are Orange County residents operating a small business there.

Congratulations for suggesting South California statehood. I urge you to pursue it vigorously.

Close in on success and California citizens may wake up and change things for the better.

Just on its own merits, however, it is a great idea. If it happens I may move there.

Again thank you for your courage.

Dear Supervisor Stone,

I recently read about your proposal to lead multiple counties in the southern half of California in a secession, which would result in another "Californian State". I support this. In fact, I might even suggest that you didn't aim high enough. You could very well likely include some more north-eastern counties in California. Several counties north of Fresno lean republican. Perhaps you could have East & West Californias.

> I am supporting this idea to make "South California" a 51st State and have it's own governor too. I'm glad you included Fresno, Imperial, Inyo, Kern, Kings, Madera, Mariposa, Mono, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego and Tulare counties in the South California state.
> I'm glad you excluded Los Angeles, but however...I do think that all the areas from East Los Angeles (even Northeastern neighborhoods, San Gabriel Valley, Antelope Valley, Foothill/Pomona Valley should secede from Los Angeles which it should be split off after Downtown Los Angeles.
>
> Between the current East L.A and Los Angeles should have a state line at all costs.
>
> East LA should be renamed to it's own city and become part of the proposed "South California 51st state". I think the ELA, SGV, AV, and Foothill area/Pomona Valley should be it's own city and be called something and we could create a separate school district and bus system for those areas to get rid of Los Angeles Metro and LAUSD from those areas that operate in those areas. The Los Angeles Metro Gold Line could be privatized as well.
>
> All of Eastside in Los Angeles need to be taken as well and separate from LA.
>
> I am support your idea for a 51st state, this is the bets idea.

This E-mail is for Supervisor Stone:

Mr. Stone,

I've been waiting for some time for somebody with a moderately potent mixture of political relevance and sense to propose this Idea. I congratulate you for having the courage(maybe the wrong word) to bring this possibility to the table. I genuinely support the plan. We may not agree on things like term limits or your boundary proposal, but otherwise the general spirit of you plan is spectacular!

As a family business operator and severe taxpayer I value the idea of a reduction in silly near religious environmental and social restrictions/regulations. I like a clean, litter free state park as much as the next guy, but the current absurdity of organizations like CARB and the California Coastal Commission steeled my resolve to leave CA long before Mr. Brown took the helm of the Titanic. I was fed up even before the hypocritical Rep. Pelosi started misrepresented our interests afield.

I may be an idealist libertarian, but I gladly and humbly offer my support and free labor to this cause. Keep me updated as to any developments such as the forming of a foundation or group in support of this initiative.

I am grateful for this idea.

Sincerely,

Taylor J. Wampler
Mission Viejo, CA

Jeff,
I've been angry with Ca since the late 70's. I live in part of 51st state-only way I would belong to that(I won't move, I'd stay as Ca, even if address is in So Ca) is if all assistance (rent, medical, utilities, cash, child svcs, education,all else) to illegals would be immediately Cut- 100%&only if medical marajuana laws remain in place-have sick family member won't deny them anything to feel better.If you can do that, then I'm probably one of your first citizens in the new state!

Hello,

I just heard that sup Jeff Stone realizes how hugely corrupt and beholden to special interest the leaders in Sacramento are and would like 13 southern counties to secede.

Please keep me informed if possible and let me know how once can help. I'm in northern Cal but is planning to move to outside Delmar this year.
Thanks,
Lars

Jeff,

I fully support your plan for succession, I see it as the ONLY viable solution. I'd prefer to break away from the coastal counties starting with LA county north. I would like to see the conservative northern California counties with us.

I'm 59, was born here and lived here all my life. I'm about to leave the state, but, if we could break away from the liberal counties, I'd stay. God bless you and let me know if I can help.

Best regards,

Steve

Dear Jeff:
Yes I support breaking the state up. We live in Orange County and I think your idea is overdue. The unions have corrupted this state and turned into a state of madness. One suggestion DUMP THE DAVIS BACON ACT. Our new state could have twice the construction @ 1/2 the cost. Second outsource our inmates to another state. We could get rid of some of the 3%ers and save millions. Lastly no more pensions only 401Ks. Good luck and let me know if I can help.

Rich

Jeff,
I live in Orange County and I support a new Southern California State! How can I help you? Don't listen to the nay-sayers times have changed, people are tired of the Socialist State of California and want California to be a Republic again. Free California! Any man willing to give up a little personal freedom for a little safety deserves neither! (Thomas Jefferson)

Good Morning Mr. Stone,

I just wanted to applaud the work that you are doing with regards to the possible secession of California. Secession has been a topic since the 1850's, However; there are many economical and demographic factors that have changed significantly.

Presently I am one of the Commissioner's for the City of Fontana, I have also been a Congressional State Delegate & a Regional Director for a Gubernatorial Campaign. If you need help, please let me know.

Have a Blessed Day.

Mr. Stone,
I just read about your proposal to create a separate state from the conservative counties of California. I wanted to send you a quick message of encouragement and wish you luck. I am from Ohio, but I feel your message about runaway spending and irresponsible governing speaks to the condition of our nation as a whole. It is often said that California sets precedence for the future of the nation and I fear that the current spiral into bankruptcy California faces only foreshadows what is to come for the nation as a whole. I hope your efforts can help draw national attention to the message of fiscal responsibility.
In the past, states have been admitted to the union in pairs to maintain balance in the Senate. As this is the place you would currently find the most partisan opposition I suggest trying to pair admission with a liberal territory such as Puerto Rico.

Good luck to you,

M. Jason Stewart

MESSAGE: I agree that conservative counties should have a choice of carving out another state in California. I am behind you 180%. We should also look outside the state and look for conservative states to form another country separate from the now United States. I believe you would have great support for both endeavors.

Just a note to compliment you on your efforts. I would feel the same way if I lived in CA. You might consider joining up with Arizona rather than seceding. The new state could be called Calzone.

MESSAGE: I live in Fresno County and I agree with Mr. Stone that California needs to be split. However, not a South California. It needs to be an East Calif. and the west coast to the liberals. The Sacramento area usually votes conservative. The present liberal government can set up shop in San Francisco and leave Sacramento to East Calfornia.
