A former executive, Dolly lived in many areas and travelled the world, but her home in Fern Valley and the Idyllwild community was her favorite place of all. She enjoyed her volunteer work with the library and the Jazz Festival. She also loved staying fit with Jazzercise classes and tending her garden where she could look up and see Lily Rock "smiling down on her" along with the blue-jays and gray squirrels "squabbling" over peanuts on her front porch.

In 2001, Dolly's declining health made it necessary to move away from her "beloved" Fern Valley. She spent the last years in a "cozy" cottage in Kailua-Kona, Hawaii, surrounded by birds and flowers and her two daughters.
