Riverside County Board of Supervisors - Agenda Item 19.1
Cannabis Workshop

Honorable Supervisors:

I am opposed to recreational marijuana - cannabis ordinance being proposed by the Board of Supervisors.

Marijuana leads to the use of other more harmful drugs.

Marijuana is often laced with other forms of illegal drugs.

The current marijuana being grown today is much more potent than that grown in the past leading to overdoses.

It will be difficult to tell those who are legal growers and those who are not legal growers.

The County will need to increase law enforcement and code enforcement officers dramatically. These officers will be tasked to deal with cannabis growers who are legal and illegal. The County cannot afford to pay for additional Sheriff's Deputies and Code Officers.

Residents will no longer be able to tell if a grow is legal or not, thus making it more dangerous to live near these growers and turn them in to code enforcement or law enforcement.

Colorado is a perfect example of what has happened when cannabis is legalized. Public Safety, Crime, health issues and overdoses.

Colorado's Legalization of Marijuana and the Impact of Public Safety.

"When voters made Colorado the first state in the nation to legalize recreational marijuana in 2012, law enforcement was presented with a new challenge: understanding and enforcing new laws that aim to regulate marijuana use, rather than enforcing laws that deem marijuana use to be illegal. Supporters of the new law claimed this would make things easier for police and save at least $12 million<sup>1</sup> in taxpayer dollars on reduced law enforcement costs. Agencies across the state argue that has not been the case<sup>2</sup>. The legislation to enact the new laws has been vague, and consequently difficult to enforce. Unforeseen problems have arisen, ranging from how to determine when a driver is legally under the influence of marijuana to how to deal with legal drug refining operations in residential neighborhoods. Some Colorado law enforcement agencies have at least one full-time officer dedicated to marijuana regulation and enforcement, but most agencies do not have this option and are struggling to deal with the additional workload brought by legalized marijuana. Many law enforcement leaders are frustrated by the conflict between enforcing the new law and upholding federal statutes that continue to view marijuana use as illegal. The neighboring states of Nebraska and Oklahoma have filed suit in the U.S. Supreme Court<sup>3</sup> to overturn Colorado's Constitutional amendment legalizing recreational marijuana, claiming that they have been flooded with illegal marijuana from Colorado. Additionally, school resource officers and other law enforcement leaders interviewed by the Police Foundation said they worry that illicit drug use by young people is on the rise because of easy access to marijuana through a continuing black market and a "gray market" of semi-legal marijuana sold through unauthorized channels. The Police Foundation and Colorado Association of Chiefs of Police have developed this guide to illustrate the challenges for law enforcement in Colorado. This guide will introduce some of the solutions that have been put into effect and outline problems that still need to be addressed. The Colorado Association of Chiefs of Police and almost every law enforcement leader in the state opposed the passage of Amendment 64, which legalized the recreational use of marijuana. Many chiefs still express strong opposition and some want to work to repeal the law because they believe it will lead to more crime and possible increased drug addiction, especially for the youth population. However, this guide is not intended to address the complex political elements of marijuana legalization. It is designed to summarize the numerous challenges faced by law enforcement when enforcing the laws surrounding legalization, to document solutions that have been proposed and put into effect, and outline problems that still need to be addressed."

<https://www.policefoundation.org/publication/colorados-legalization-of-marijuana-and-the-impact-on-public-safety-a-practical-guide-for-law-enforcement2/>

"The legalization of marijuana produced many unintended consequences, which led to a number of challenges and issues. Some of which have been addressed through ordinances, policies, and procedures, while other issues are more complicated and have not found total resolution. The findings that make up the guidebook show:

- Data to determine the impact of legalized marijuana on crime and safety is limited and is a significant problem.
- Banking systems are unavailable to the marijuana industry because of federal laws, creating a dangerous level of cash that can lead to robberies.
- Difficulties in establishing what is a legal marijuana operation have created problems in conducting investigations, determining probable cause and search and seizure procedures.
- Marijuana illegal trading through the black and gray markets has not decreased, law enforcement agencies have found. Diversion across state boundaries has created issues for bordering states who do not have legalized marijuana laws.
- Public health and safety impacts concerns have occurred through the increased THC potency from marijuana hash oil extractions, which are used in making laced edibles and beverages. People have overdosed on the higher levels of THC leading to potential psychotic breaks and suicide attempts.
- Youth use and addiction rates have increased due to ease of accessibility.
- Detecting driving under the influence of marijuana is a significant challenge for law enforcement (policefoundation.org)."
<https://www.policefoundation.org/projects/colorados-legalization-of-marijuana-and-the-impact-on-public-policy-a-practical-guide-for-law-enforcement/>."

Portion of Letter From Chief Marc Vasquez, Erie Police Department

Legalized marijuana brings new challenges. Increased use of marijuana by both adults and youth will occur in communities where marijuana is legalized. With increased use, we can expect to see more driving under the influence of marijuana cases and an increased number of accidental overdoses from highly potent THC concentrates. We anticipate increased diversion of marijuana to juveniles and states that currently prohibit marijuana.

<https://www.policefoundation.org/publication/colorados-legalization-of-marijuana-and-the-impact-on-public-safety-a-practical-guide-for-law-enforcement2/>

I urge the Board of Supervisors to VOTE NO on the proposed ordinance to legalize cannabis. We do not have enough Sheriffs to patrol the unincorporated areas of Riverside County. Code Enforcement is non-existent. We do not need to add to this problem.

Sincerely,

Debbie Walsh

Don't let tax dollars cause you to allow drugs to become legal in our county. We don't want them in Woodcrest. There are plenty o drugs here already.

I am 100% opposed to dispensaries and manufacturing bans being lifted.

I can't argue growing since we have AG land.

Half of our unincorporated area voted no on 64. Allowing pot to be legal barely passed. I think more would vote no on dispensaries and manufacturing! You cannot deny half of the community a voice by circumventing a vote by using "fees" instead of taxes! Prop 64 says nothing about fees. It clearly says taxes!

So whichever way you want to go, at least pit it on a ballot. Many localities have bans in place. I don't read about any lawsuits from cannabis lobby!

Thank you,

William and Nancy Embry

Rachael's family raised and trained quarter horses in Nevada and Texas. She participated in 4-H and Future Farmers of America (FFA) growing up. She had no idea that her future would find her choosing a career in agriculture advocacy.

In 1997, she was hired to fill the Office Manager position at Riverside County Farm Bureau. After a few years, she was encouraged to apply for Executive Director at the San Bernardino County Farm Bureau, becoming the Executive Director in 2000.

In 2007 she pursued and was selected to the position of Region I Field Representative for the California Farm Bureau Federation (CFBF). In this roll, she served as the liaison between twelve county farm bureaus and CFBF, traveling regularly up and down and across the State of California. From Salinas to El Centro, she fielded questions, helped County offices solve concerns, and learned about the many and varied problems and solutions that could be applied across the agriculture-member spectrum. This experience with Agricultural issues on a county, statewide and national basis, often involved traveling to Sacramento and Washington, D.C. to lobby legislators and regulators with Farm Bureau Directors.

In December of 2017, Rachael returned to the Riverside County Farm Bureau as the new Executive Director. With her enthusiasm in advocating for Ag brings a renewed excitement to our County, and we look forward to a long and rewarding process.

Comment Good Afternoon Supervisors,

I am a licensed cultivator and dispensary owner in Desert Hot Springs. I am also a resident of Anza, and I support cultivation on rural residential properties larger than 1 acre.

Currently Anza is filled with illegal cultivation. Some of the growers are respectful small businesses that help medical patients, some are completely illegal and contributing only to the black market, and some are in the middle. I suggest the county board focus on helping the respectful small businesses, and on converting those in the middle into law abiding, regulation following, tax paying businesses. Those that are contributing to the black market need to be shut down. Regulating those that wish to be legal, follow the laws, and pay taxes will help drive illegal operators out of town. Right now Anza is a haven for illegal cultivation and that issue can be controlled with proper regulation that allows for small business opportunities.

In my opinion cultivation will always be a part of the Anza community. Anza is a farming community, close to major cities, yet remote. The weather is good, and the land is available and affordable. I believe the best way to control illegal and harmful cultivation is to give the people who want to cultivate legally an opportunity to do so. And while I applaud the recommendations to allow cannabis businesses, I highly suggest some type of cultivation program for rural residential properties over one acre. The program can limit the size of the gardens, and require inspections and fees. Please look to find a happy medium and give small business owners a chance to make something great. I don't suggest allowing unlimited cultivation on any property size, but if you allowed 5% of the total property to be used for cultivation that would still give owners a good small business. It would be about one greenhouse per business.

Allowing small scale cultivation in rural residential will improve people's lives in Anza. It brings jobs to families that need them, and only people who follow regulations will be allowed to cultivate. If you don't pay your permit fees and taxes, you get shut down. Right now the rules are grey and there is little money to enforce the rules. Making the rules clear, and taxing cultivation will give money to the county to shut down rogue operators. Allowing only a small number of people to cultivate on agricultural land will ensure that most agricultural land becomes cannabis land. Further it will not stop people from growing on their own land. If there is no opportunity to follow the rules, people have no ability to follow the rules. Give people the option to become licensed. Allowing cultivation on agricultural and commercial land is great, but I would highly suggest you also allow small scale cultivation on rural residential.

Rural residential zoning in Riverside County currently allows nurseries, greenhouses, orchards, aviaries, apiaries, field crops, tree crops, berry and bush crops, vegetables, flower and herb gardening on a commercial scale. Almost any other crop can be farmed as a small business on Rural Residential. Please consider allowing small cannabis businesses to operate on rural residential land as well.

Thank you for your time,

Andrew Milks

Please submit an ordinance for regulation of cannabis to the voters for the election in November, 2018. I am an ardent supporter of intelligent regulation of cannabis businesses and I believe a realistic set of rules would bring cannabis out of the black market and would make considerable revenue for the County of Riverside and would result in lower crime rate and safer cannabis for users of cannabis. Please be sure that microbusiness are included in the ordinance. A public committee set up for drafting of the ordinance would provide greater public input into the rules and regulations. Thank you for considering my views.

Five years later, Colorado sees toll of pot legalization

Tuesday, November 14, 2017 | Colorado Springs Gazette Opinion

3/30/18 19-1
2018-4-139485 S

Last week marked the fifth anniversary of Colorado's decision to sanction the world's first anything-goes commercial pot trade.

Five years later, we remain an embarrassing cautionary tale.

Visitors to Colorado remark about a new agricultural smell, the wafting odor of pot as they drive near warehouse grow operations along Denver freeways. Residential neighborhoods throughout Colorado Springs reek of marijuana, as producers fill rental homes with plants.

Five years of retail pot coincide with five years of a homelessness growth rate that ranks among the highest rates in the country. Directors of homeless shelters, and people who live on the streets, tell us homeless substance abusers migrate here for easy access to pot.

Five years of Big Marijuana ushered in a doubling in the number of drivers involved in fatal crashes who tested positive for marijuana, based on research by the pro-legalization Denver Post.

Five years of commercial pot have been five years of more marijuana in schools than teachers and administrators ever feared.

"An investigation by Education News Colorado, Solutions and the I-News Network shows drug violations reported by Colorado's K-12 schools have increased 45 percent in the past four years, even as the combined number of all other violations has fallen," explains an expose on escalating pot use in schools by Rocky Mountain PBS in late 2016.

The investigation found an increase in high school drug violations of 71 percent since legalization. School suspensions for drugs increased 45 percent.

The National Survey on Drug Use and Health found Colorado ranks first in the country for marijuana use among teens, scoring well above the national average.

The only good news to celebrate on this anniversary is the dawn of another organization to push back against Big Marijuana's threat to kids, teens and young adults.

The Marijuana Accountability Coalition formed Nov. 6 in Denver and will establish satellites throughout the state. It resulted from discussions among recovery professionals, parents, physicians and others concerned with the long-term effects of a commercial industry profiteering off of substance abuse.

"It's one thing to decriminalize marijuana, it's an entirely different thing to legalize an industry that has commercialized a drug that is devastating our kids and devastating whole communities," said coalition founder Justin Luke

Riley. "Coloradans need to know, other states need to know, that Colorado is suffering from massive normalization and commercialization of this drug which has resulted in Colorado being the number one state for youth drug use in the country. Kids are being expelled at higher rates, and more road deaths tied to pot have resulted since legalization."

Commercial pot's five-year anniversary is an odious occasion for those who want safer streets, healthier kids and less suffering associated with substance abuse. Experts say the worst effects of widespread pot use will culminate over decades. If so, we can only imagine the somber nature of Big Marijuana's 25th birthday.

Five years later, Colorado sees toll of pot legalization

Tuesday, November 14, 2017 | Colorado Springs Gazette Opinion

Last week marked the fifth anniversary of Colorado's decision to sanction the world's first anything-goes commercial pot trade.

Five years later, we remain an embarrassing cautionary tale.

Visitors to Colorado remark about a new agricultural smell, the wafting odor of pot as they drive near warehouse grow operations along Denver freeways. Residential neighborhoods throughout Colorado Springs reek of marijuana, as producers fill rental homes with plants.

Five years of retail pot coincide with five years of a homelessness growth rate that ranks among the highest rates in the country. Directors of homeless shelters, and people who live on the streets, tell us homeless substance abusers migrate here for easy access to pot.

Five years of Big Marijuana ushered in a doubling in the number of drivers involved in fatal crashes who tested positive for marijuana, based on research by the pro-legalization Denver Post.

Five years of commercial pot have been five years of more marijuana in schools than teachers and administrators ever feared.

"An investigation by Education News Colorado, Solutions and the I-News Network shows drug violations reported by Colorado's K-12 schools have increased 45 percent in the past four years, even as the combined number of all other violations has fallen," explains an expose on escalating pot use in schools by Rocky Mountain PBS in late 2016.

The investigation found an increase in high school drug violations of 71 percent since legalization. School suspensions for drugs increased 45 percent.

The National Survey on Drug Use and Health found Colorado ranks first in the country for marijuana use among teens, scoring well above the national average.

The only good news to celebrate on this anniversary is the dawn of another organization to push back against Big Marijuana's threat to kids, teens and young adults.

The Marijuana Accountability Coalition formed Nov. 6 in Denver and will establish satellites throughout the state. It resulted from discussions among recovery professionals, parents, physicians and others concerned with the long-term effects of a commercial industry profiteering off of substance abuse.
