BACKGROUND:

Summary

It is a Riverside County Sheriff's Department (RCSD) priority to leverage technology and information to improve efficiencies and multiply effectiveness. On April 27, 2018 the U.S. Department of Justice Office of Community Oriented Policing Services (COPS) announced a grant solicitation for Community Policing Development (CPD). CPD funds are used to develop the capacity of law enforcement to implement community policing strategies by providing guidance on promising practices through the development and testing of innovative strategies; building knowledge about effective practices and outcomes; and supporting new, creative approaches to preventing crime and promoting safe communities.

The COPS Office will provide 18 awards of up to $100,000 to each agency, including Field-Initiated Law Enforcement Microgrants, which provide funding to state, local, or tribal law enforcement agencies to propose demonstration or pilot projects to be implemented in their agency that offer creative ideas to advance crime fighting, community engagement, problem solving, or organizational changes to support community policing in one of six (6) COPS Office-identified topic areas.

The County, on behalf of the RCSD, will apply for grant funding through the COPS Office CPD Topic 6 – Field-Initiated Law Enforcement Microgrants. This grant of up to $100,000 will support a partnership between the Public Safety Lab of New York University, Claremont Graduate University and the Riverside County Anti-Human Trafficking Task Force (RCAHT); wherein the three entities work cooperatively in the further development of an online search tool to identify high probability investigative leads for human trafficking of involuntary sex trade from publicly accessible information. Presently, the identification of human trafficking victims from online (sex ad) content is extremely difficult, especially for a limited human resource, given that numerous new ads are placed each night. However, online search tools using computational algorithms can assist in solving this problem and have proven successful in previous instances (e.g. DARPA's Memex project). However, it is critical that tool developers work directly with law enforcement, as critical information is lost when agencies and developers do not actively engage in this process. These engagements involve a bi-directional feedback loop whereby officers that are conducting investigations provide critical feedback about the success of investigations, while the development team ingests this content and then provides information about potential cases of human trafficking. The online search tool development aim is increased efficiency and effectiveness of the human trafficking investigations by pointing scarce law enforcement resources in the direction of the largest and most egregious offenses that are being committed in the trafficking space.

SUBMITTAL TO THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS COUNTY OF RIVERSIDE, STATE OF CALIFORNIA

Award documents will be submitted to the Board for approval when the grant funds are awarded.

County Counsel has reviewed and approved the documents as to form.

Impact on Residents and Businesses

The COPS CPD Field-Initiated Law Microgrant-Human Trafficking will assist the County by continuing the mission of RCAHT to combat human trafficking in Riverside County.

Additional Fiscal Information

Grant funding from COPS CPD Field-Initiated Law Microgrant-Human Trafficking will allow for the enhancement of RCAHT with minimal county costs.
