1. PROBLEM STATEMENT

Becoming a teenager is an exciting and challenging time for youth. It's a time to broaden experiences and gain increased independence. This is obtained through decreased curfew restrictions, maintaining immediate and constant access to social connections via cellphones and social media platforms, all while preparing for the physical independence of becoming licensed drivers. Although education and training are required for every teen to gain licensing to operate a vehicle, these requirements are only the minimum guidelines required to drive. To reach true driving competence, exposure to safe driving behaviors, continuous practice and opportunities for access to traffic safety education and messaging is key to developing the next generation of skilled drivers. Without these interventions our young people are on a collision course for disaster.

The fourth most populated county in California, Riverside County (RC) is home to 2.4 million residents. This includes 26% of the total population that are youth under 18 years of age. Geographically, RC stretches 200 miles across and over 7,200 square miles, with twenty-six incorporated cities and 25 school districts. Having such a widespread region poses many traffic challenges, especially to novice drivers. According to the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety (IIHS), the risk of collision is highest at age sixteen due to immaturity and inexperience. IIHS reported that in 2018, 63% of teen passenger deaths involved crashes with a teen driver, indicating that distractions and peer pressure are also factors (Attachment A). Pairing this with the rising issue of impaired driving, our youth are primed for increased collision rates. Data received from the Statewide Integrated Traffic Records System (SWITRS) indicates that between 2017 – 2018, RC experienced 1,086 motor vehicle collisions by an alcohol-impaired driver between 15 – 30 years of age, resulting in approximately 1,737 injuries and death (Attachment B). More disturbing is the fact that approximately 122 of these collisions were caused by a driver 19 years of age and younger (Attachment C). While these statistics provide a sobering glimpse into the larger issue of teen impaired driving, for families and friends the loss of a loved one is devastating. On June 3, 2019, a 19-year old male in Temecula was arrested on suspicion of driving impaired under the influence after a collision that left a 15 year old female dead, and two 18 year olds severely injured. The driver was charged for felony driving under the influence and vehicular manslaughter. (Attachment D). This tragic event not only impacts the victim, but forever changes the life of this young driver as well.

In recent years, California has joined many other states and legalized the use of marijuana. Due to this shift in legislation, many law enforcement and public health professionals are concerned the impact these changes will have on the rate of drug impaired driving collisions. Consequently, marijuana will be easier to obtain, and will be more accessible to our middle and high school youth. Data obtained from the California Healthy Kid's Survey shows that from 2016 to 2017, 53% of ninth grade students in Riverside County surveyed admitted to using drugs or alcohol in the past 30 days of taking the survey while 35% of students engaged in binge drinking. In addition, 31% of eleventh grade students reported using marijuana during the preceding 30 days of the questionnaire (Attachment E). The Center for Behavioral Health Statistics and Quality (CBHSQ) states: After alcohol, marijuana is the drug most often linked to drugged driving. Using marijuana can impair judgment, motor coordination, and the ability to concentrate and slow reaction time. NHTSA reports that marijuana increases a crash risk by 1.25 times. When marijuana is combined with alcohol, the risk of having an auto crash is much greater.

Unfortunately, Riverside County residents are already seeing the negative effects of drug impaired driving. In 2018, a 19-year-old Riverside County man under the influence of marijuana and alcohol caused a collision that resulted in the death of a 23-year-old woman and her unborn child (Attachment F). It is incidents' such as these that remind us that early intervention is the key to prevention.

While many efforts have been made to educate the community at large on the laws associated with impaired driving, many youth fail to recognize these efforts. As part of a previous teen traffic safety program, Riverside University Health System – Public Health (RUHS-PH) surveyed 1712 students across 10 high schools and found that 43% of students did not understand the definition or purpose of California's Zero Tolerance law (Attachment G). Continuous education on current laws and consequences associated with teen impaired and distracted driving is imperative if we want to increase awareness and affect positive change among our youth.

Current media campaigns that target teen drivers largely focus on the adverse effects of impaired and distracted driving. While these messages effectively outline the financial, social and emotional burden of traffic collisions, youth are not responding to these campaigns. One of the inherent problems in providing prevention education to young people, is their perception that they are "bullet-proof", or somehow, magically immune to threats to their health and safety. As a result, teens take more unnecessary risks and fail to recognize hazardous situations. Because of their "live for the moment" attitude, teens are often unable to perceive the serious consequences to themselves and others as a result of their risk taking behavior.

Positive messaging offers the opportunity to engage youth to change behavior, while showcasing alternative choices in traffic safety. Program activities that are led by youth is an effective way for their peers to be challenged, highlighting the autonomy that comes with making positive choices. One way youth leaders can engage their peers is by utilizing the train-the-trainer (TTT) model. The TTT model focuses on training a person or groups who in turn train others on the subject at hand to be able to reach a larger audience. Applying this model with high school youth leaders, that will be trained by RUHS-PH, will allow the message of the dangers of impaired and distracted driving to be disseminated among the majority of students on campus.

An additional component to help increase youth education and awareness is through their parents. Parents are an essential key when it comes to their teen driver as they are the leading example. Teens with supportive, involved parents are 70% less likely to drink and drive, and 30% less likely to use a cell phone while driving. One way to keep parents informed and updated on risks, consequences, and laws is through parent meetings and community events. Parents have the opportunity to speak one-on-one to ask questions, gather information, and find additional resources to reach out to their teen driver. They can obtain the tools to encourage them to talk to their teens and become more involved in influencing positive driving behaviors.

2. The inability of a person to provide the certification required below will not necessarily result in denial of participation in this covered transaction. The prospective primary tier participant shall submit an explanation of why it cannot provide the certification set out below. The certification or explanation will be considered in connection with the department or agency's determination whether to enter into this transaction. However, failure of the prospective primary tier participant to furnish a certification or an explanation shall disqualify such person from participation in this transaction.
3. The certification in this clause is a material representation of fact upon which reliance was placed when the department or agency determined to enter into this transaction. If it is later determined that the prospective primary tier participant knowingly rendered an erroneous certification, in addition to other remedies available to the Federal Government, the department or agency may terminate this transaction for cause or default or may pursue suspension or debarment.
4. The prospective primary tier participant shall provide immediate written notice to the department or agency to which this proposal is submitted if at any time the prospective primary tier participant learns its certification was erroneous when submitted or has become erroneous by reason of changed circumstances.
