To Press Claims

The contract for construction of the dam which will be of the earth-fill type was let last week to the Griffith company of Los Angeles. Work is expected to begin within 30 days. In the meantime, the district will advance to property owners within the area to be submerged by the reservoir lands, money with which to move their homes, the amounts loaned to be charged against any compensation eventually allowed them by the superior court.

Lawrence Holmes, owner of the famous canyon in the Capitan district, is almost the last, and single compensation in the guarantee fund. The court required the district to pay approximately $100,000, or one-fourth of the total, for his lands. In an answer to the condemnation action, Holmes requested $1,000,000 as compensation and damages. He and several other land owners of the area will press their contents of the district's offer, it is understood.

Townsend Raily at Arlington Tomorrow

A large number of local and Norco Townsend pension supporters will attend the mass meeting to be held tomorrow evening, 7:30 o'clock, at the Arlington park under the auspices of Townsend club of this district.

George H. Highley, president of Los Angeles club, No. 93, which has reputed membership of 11,000, and Burr McIntosh, the "Cheerful Philosopher" who is living at The Norconian, will be the speakers.

Music will be furnished by an Italian orchestra and ice cream and cake will be served at a refreshment booth. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Highways Worked Out

Except in those cases where affidavits were submitted by the defendant property owners the court awarded the amount offered by the district's appraisers. In a report issued at the time of the announcement of the award, Judge Freeman mentioned only the new awards which he had changed on a basis of the affidavits.

Earlier in the day, Chief Counsel Weber of the Metropolitan Water District appeared before the board of supervisors relative to working out highway plans through the reservoir area to avoid inconvenience to property owners during the time they remain on their lands.

He said the district stands ready to augment county funds in providing substitute roads for those affected by the contractor or covered by the dam. The supervisors authorized County Engineer A. C. Fulmer to work with the district's engineer in preparing a highway plan for the reservoir site.

WELL-ROUNDED CARD AT ONTARIO

A well-rounded amateur mitt card will be offered at the Ontario Legion area Wednesday night, with Art Hernandez of Santa Ana and Gene Stroud of Los Angeles tugging in the main event. They weigh 147 pounds.

Two of the best 130-pounders in Southern California will exchange jabs and hooks in the semi-wind-up. Lewis Rice of Alhambra and Jesse Sanchez of Santa Ana have been matched.

Everette Jure of Redlands and Cleo Castro of Ontario mix at 125 pounds in the seventh bout and Riverside's Jimmy Dugan fights Pete Ramirez of Alhambra. They are 140-pounders and park engineers in preparing a highway plan for the reservoir site.

FAMED PAIR PLAN NATAL DAY SUNDAY

Plans call for an all-day informal gathering at the McIntosh studio and community singing on the lawn from 3 to 5 o'clock. All Corona and Norco residents are urged to come and help the kindly philosopher and his equally well-known poet friend celebrate their "third birthdays."

But McIntosh will not be thru with gala days, for he is leaving immediately afterwards for Chicago to participate in a national convention of his fraternity. Sigma Chi, where he will officiate as poet laureate, at the 80th anniversary of his fraternity. And when Burr McIntosh recites the ode he has written for the event, it is a safe conclusion that Sigma Chi members will be thankful that they recognized his sterling qualities and abilities 55 years ago at Lafayette College, Pennsylvania.

"Paradise Valley" is the name by which McIntosh calls this region, for the reason that one day several years ago, when standing on the crest of the Corona Sky Line Drive, the famous "Keep A-Coin" philosopher was moved to so christen the beautiful panorama stretching before him. And it is in "Paradise Valley" he adopted home that Burr McIntosh famed the country over for his simple yet appealing poetry. has chosen to celebrate his 73rd birthday.

HEAVY SAND SHIPMENTS

COUNTY EXHIBIT LIKELY FOR FAIR

This county probably will have an exhibit at the Los Angeles county fair in Pomona, Sept. 13-20, but details of the display are yet to be worked out between the Chambers of Commerce of the county and the board of supervisors.

J. M. Paige, secretary of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce and head of the county's exhibiting division of the fair, has requested the supervisors to enter a Riverside county display and the supervisors are planning to confer with chamber officials of the county before deciding definitely as to the amount to be budgeted.

Mexican Involved in Accident is Jailed

David Cobarrubias of Pala was arrested last night for driving while intoxicated following an automobile collision on the Temecula canyon highway, about eight miles southeast of here.

His son, Albert, aged 7 years, was slightly injured in the crash. Miss Mary Pinkerton of Corona, driver of the car which is said to have been wrecked by Cobarrubias' vehicle as he plied it unsteadily along the canyon highway, was not hurt. The Pala resident, who was traveling toward Elsinore, also escaped injury.

Wounded 'Kingfish' Gains; Militia Units Guard Cities

BATON ROUGE, La.—Shot and seriously wounded shortly after 9:30 last night by Dr. C. A. Weiss, Jr., eye-specialist of this city, Senator Huey P. Long was reported as gaining strength this afternoon after a second blood transfusion and operation. No further developments in his condition are anticipated by physicians for 72 hours.

The turbulent political figure, who is 42 years old, experienced considerable internal bleeding last night and this morning but his general condition this afternoon was described as "satisfactory."

Militia units were standing guard here and at New Orleans, having been summoned in that city this morning to prevent any demonstration for or against the wounded dictator's virtual stranglehold on Louisiana public offices.

Political observers predicted the widest repercussions if Long should die, the Senator having been strongly mentioned by himself and friends as a third party candidate for president next year. They said that Long's powerful political machine—greatest in recent U. S. history—would disintegrate if he should succumb to the bullet fired by Dr. Weiss, member of a long-time anti-Long political family.

Wound-Be Assasin Killed Dr. Weiss was slain with more than 40 bullet holes in his body by bodyguards of the Louisiana "Kingfish." The Senator had just finished directing passage of bills in one of his special legislative sessions here last night when he was shot as he stepped out of the House door. Dr. Weiss walked up to him, pressed the muzzle of a pistol close to his body and Construction work on the new Cajalco highway, which provides contractors with a direct ascent to the Cajalco reservoir site from Temescal canyon highway has been completed, according to Supervisor Ralph W. Stanfield. The road is approximately three and a half miles in length, and climbs the side of the range of hills that rise to the north of the Temescal highway.

Editorially, the Los Angeles Times salutes the state's birthday as follows: California was christened about 1543 when Cabrillo landed many years before the Pilgrim Fathers stepped out on Plymouth Rock. Some say the name came from the Spanish, "caliente form," they didn't know their California. It gave in spots the highest and lowest. GINGER SCHNAPPS

It will keep on persevering! Till at last it's time for clearing! All the drops are bright and cheery!

When a friend gets sour an' sourly, let 'em be. Don't start up a hurly burly, 'til the fightin' free. He'll come 'round, perhaps, with waitin'.

Just how a lot of high school age could be expected to take on the enormous duties of running a nation is a matter for deep contemplation in the democratic United States.

Because of our ruins and customs, such a thing would be impossible here. But in the hands of the kingmakers with which Europe abounds, it's a simple trick.

Little more than a year ago, Farouk was no more fitted to rule Egypt than any American boy of his name.

Suppose our method of executive succession brought a young boy to the president's chair? Then suppose the cabinet, borrowing power to rule meekly, sent the boy president out of the country for a five-month preparatory course before swearing him in with full powers.

Suppose, also, that two million "erring" people then jammed Washington to greet the little fellow as he rode triumphantly to the White House down an avenue festooned with lights, banners and flags.

It is all too preposterous ever to happen here. But the thought is valuable.

For a dime or a quarter, an fortune teller will look into the future and unravel any question about life or death, time or tide, or whether you'll ever meet the attractive person who sat at the next table in the restaurant.

But if you're wise, you'll classify the results more as amusement than anything else. Let's take science and the methods of predicting where the human race will be in 100 or 1000 years from now.

THE Commentator

There are two things which impress the motorist—the instant he crosses the border of California. For once he is not a driver, but a passenger.

The majority of the bordering states do not pass any limit for highway driving. They agree with Nevada which lays only the injunction that the speed of driving, in the past few years, the driving speed has increased rapidly.

Yet, California says that the speed limit in the business district should be twenty miles; in the residential, twenty five; on the main highways, thirty; and on the main highways, thirty; and on the main highways, thirty.

Because of our ruins and customs, such a thing would be impossible here. But in the hands of the kingmakers with which Europe abounds, it's a simple trick.

BOOK REVIEW

"OF LENA GEYER" By MARCIA DAVENPORT. Lena Gever has an opera singer, one of the greatest ever known. Yet she was also a woman, a person of many sides, and capable of producing great friendship with those few whom she chose to make her intimates.

The life of Lena Gever is traced for us from her earliest days when she was a simple Bohemian peasant in Prague, a peasant, yes, but a peasant endowed with a sense and love of music and a phenomenal memory which indicated to Pizzetti, master teacher of singers, that she was a prodigy.

The Oranjo county exit of the town would be in Elmer Street canyon, where it is proposed that the reservoir be constructed. This would make it possible for the M. W. D. to serve the Oranjo county coast district and reach into San Diego county.

Federal Forester To Study in Europe

According to information received from the local Western forest ranger station, J. D. Sinclair, silviculturist in charge of the San Dimas experimental forest, of Corona, California, who has assisted Federal, state and county authorities in the study of watershed situations of the hills south of Corona, will make a four-month study of forest practices and their relation to flood control and watershed management.

Assurance was given of further forest work upon his return from Europe. The city is also assured by A. G. Gremies, supervisor of the Cleveland and Imperial national forest, of continued operation.

Dodge Party Views Rock Quarries

OUR 1938 DODGE SEDAN from the used car lot of the Polton Motor Co. carried the Polton gold bond guarantee. It drives like new, and is just a sample of the many used car bargains available here. We arrived at this scene shortly after six tons of dynamite had blown the face of the hillside, loosening thousands of tons of rock to be used in flood control construction in the Los Angeles riverbed.

News Auto Party Follows Shell Directions to Destination

By HERB FREEG

Automotive Editor

Where do the thousands of tons of rock going into the flood-control work in Southern California come from?

Looking along San Fernando's road and Riverside drive we observe hundreds of trucks bringing rock to the riverbed.

Last week the Daily News Auto Party called on Miss Polton who handles the efficient Shell touring service here in the Shell building. Here John Polton and all Shell service stations and dealers obtain their travel information. This young lady directed us to two quarries, one in the Verdugo hills and the other near Corona.

Don't be surprised when we tell you our car was a 1936 Dodge sedan from the used car lot of Polton Motor Co. You see it had been completely reconditioned and carried the Polton gold bond guarantee which includes service for 99 days and parts for 90 days. Lincoln Anderson, Polton's general manager, told us the guarantee covered only reconditioned cars up to two years old. The car drove like a new one, and was an example of the many used car bargains to be had at the time of the year when dealers are clearing the decks preparatory to raising the curtain on the 1938 automobile season.

United States engineers have had a big problem on their hands in the paving of the Los Angeles riverbed.

Their main difficulty was the scarcity of heavy stone in that part of the country. For months they looked for such stone in Mexico, Oregon, 25 miles to the river, a costly operation.

In the interests of economy a big quarry has recently been opened in the Verdugo hills for the purpose of supplying rock to the river bed as well as the new Hansen dam. This dam, under construction at the mouth of Verdugo canyon, will control the waters of the San Fernando valley. Engineers estimate that the Montrose quarry in the Verdugo hills contains 50 million tons of rock.

We arrived at the Montrose quarry just in time to see what six tons of dynamite did when fired in a "royale" the trade name for a tunnel which runs back under the hillside some 60 feet to a cross tunnel, forming a "T." At intervals dynamite is placed in these tunnels so that the face of the hill is lifted out when the "royale" is discharged. The rock is then run over a grating which is known as a "grape," where it is thoroughly cleaned before delivery. This operation is checked by government engineers, and the rock is accepted at the quarry and again at the riverbed.

This new quarry at Montrose, on account of its proximity to the riverbed, is saving many thousands of dollars for the government and taxpayers of Southern California.

We also noticed in the Hansen Stone quarry near Corona, which has been opened up for the purpose of supplying rock to the new Prado dam on the Santa Ana river. A similar rock project will be undertaken on the Santa Ana river as is now being done to the Los Angeles river. The trade dam is in completion practically the same size as the Hansen dam.

This particular blasty stone is known as "the United States granite," similar to the texture of the original blasty stone which has been used in Europe for thousands of years in the building of moats and old castles, and has proved especially sound for rock structures under water.

We were told that as far as the engineers have been able to discover this is the only deposit of blasty stone on the North American continent. It will be of great help in the big construction problems facing the engineers. This blasty stone quarry contains 200,000,000 tons of rock. It is on the Santa Ana railroad, as is also Prado dam, so that the rock will be delivered to the center of the dam by specially constructed cars.

Autumn Check Of Family Car May Save Grief

Time for the autumn check-up of the family automobile has arrived—time to get the old car in shape for the winter driving ahead.

"The modern motor car does not need very elaborate preparation for cold weather," said a Los Angeles dealer, "but if the few things necessary are done now, it will probably save a good deal of bother and inconvenience later on."

It is advisable now or within the next week or two to have the car's engine drained and lighter oil for winter use put in. This will remove the battery of some of the strain of starting on cold mornings. It is also wise to have the battery thoroughly checked and the generator charging rate set for winter requirements. A thorough job of chassis lubrication should be done, and the lubricant in the transmission and rear end changed to the proper lighter grade for winter use.

It is, of course, if the car is abandoned, the dealer said, "it will be a good investment to take it to a dealer and have it tuned. This will have an important effect on easy starting and on gasoline consumption. Tires should be examined for wear and safety qualities.

"Beyond these comparatively simple steps, the modern car needs no further attention for the winter season, especially in Southern California. As a matter of fact, if a car needs considerably more attention than this, it probably would be wiser to trade it in for a really good used car or a new automobile to make sure it is a car that is safe and dependable."

And speaking of good used cars, Ford dealers everywhere are offering the pick of the lot in R & G (renewal and guaranteed) used cars during the last few days of their "Clear the Decks" sale. These cars have been thoroughly checked and optimized for winter driving and carry a guarantee of "750 per cent satisfaction or your money back," according to the local Ford dealer. "In many cases, the owner's own automobile can be traded in on one of these R & G renewal and guaranteed Ford dealer used cars for slightly more than the cost of the repair bill on an old car."

Dealer Opens Salesman's School Streamliners Pride of Willys Line

An innovation in used car merchandising has been instituted by L. L. Cormier, president of Central Chevrolet company, in the establishment at 1207 East Seventh street of a used car salesman's school of practical experience, headed by Vern Morris, senior salesman at Central Chevrolet company.

The fall clearance sale applies ties with the operations of the training school. Mr. Cormier is an exponent of the idea of early training of young potential salesmen.

The New Willys Streamliner model, which established a styleogue popular with the younger set, and, for that matter, with younger minded persons of all ages, is setting sales records these days, according to officials of Willys Distributors, Inc., of Los Angeles.

In this sparkling new model Willys produced an attractive five passenger sport sedan design through use of specially conceived "streamliner" models in fitted with distinctive emotions and the ultra-stylish arrowhead hood design.

Having been in the quarry business for a great many years, this being well informed as to mineral deposits and feeling satisfied there was good opening here for a sand, gravel and rip rap plant, he entered into negotiations for 600 acres of land in the eastern part of the city...

Since that time he has enjoyed a business and has landed some good contracts. There are several more which he is figuring on some of which he has reason to believe will materialize to his benefit.

The most recent contract was that of furnishing the materials for the construction of the new Pebley bridge.

The Man With the Hoe

For a sheet of color on a wall, fence or truck, the "Man With the Hoe" can compete with the morning glory. They grow easily and quickly.

Magazines, catalogs, newspaper articles and books should be an important part of your garden's education. Do not neglect them.

The leeks are excellent seasoners to grow. They will give a rich, nutty flavor to soups and take up only a small part of your vegetable patch.

Send in order early for new gladiolus bulbs. They are expected early with the onset of this popular plant.

Cheerful is a pot herb you encounter in cook books but seldom in gardens. It is all white and yellow, but liked better by many. Plant it in a pot and give it a new flavor in soups and stews.

The best new garden is the one planned first on paper, and set out according to plan. Use ruled paper in making the plan.

Council Considering Reward for Firebugs

Twenty-two fires in 26 days is not a record to boast of by any means but it is gratifying to know that the fire loss was nil, due to the prompt arrival and efficient service rendered by the fire department.

More than half of these fires are said to be the work of individuals who are either too young to realize the danger of starting fires or who do so with malicious intent.

Members of the city council are seriously considering offering a reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties.

Stones Picked Up on Dam Site

That sheet piling that was driven across the dam is nearly a thing of the past.

Award Contracts for Concreting Operations

Person and Hollingsworth Company have been awarded a sub-contract covering the re-erected concrete work in connection with the Outlet Works, Inake Structure, Gate Control House and Spillway.

The Inake structure contains the trash racks which will be completed and a major portion of the forms are stripped.

The Control House is a structure nineteen feet wide by sixty seven feet long with ceiling height of approximately sixteen feet.

The Outlet Works consists of two concrete tunnels each thirteen and one half feet square and approximately seven hundred feet long.

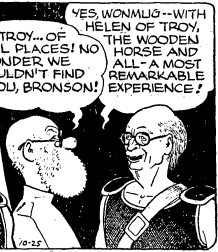

The Spillway will cover an area of approximately fifteen acres and will provide for the disposal of water during peak floods allowing for the escape of a large volume of water over sufficient area to prevent cutting of new river channel.

And you are hereby notified unless you appear and answer as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the complaint, as arising upon contract, or you will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the complaint.

Arrest Man for Selling Salvation Army Donations

While J. B. Schoelkopf, 44, giving his address in care of the Salvation Army headquarters in Los Angeles and Riverside and his occupation as an ex-soldier, is serving out a sentence in the city jail, an investigation is being made by police officials and officers of the Salvation Army. He was taken into custody late Wednesday afternoon by Chief Eli Garner and pleaded guilty before Judge George E. McCauley of violation of the Corona business license ordinance that of selling and delivering merchandise without first paying the license fee, according to police reports. Schoelkopf admitted that he and another wayfarer staying at the Los Angeles headquarters of the Salvation Army were sent out with the Army truck to pick up donations, and worked in the Riverside territory which is cared for by trucks from the San Bernardino headquarters. Instead of returning with the donations to Los Angeles the two are alleged to have been selling much of the clothing collected.

On Tuesday, Schoelkopf sold a large quantity of clothing at a Corona store, giving a fictitious address, 4032 on a street, Corona. Wednesday, he returned to the same store with another bunch of clothes, including shoes, dresses and suits. He was brought into the police station by Chief Garner. Late in the evening, two of the officials of the Salvation Army, accompanied by Inspector Kelcey of the Riverside police department, came to the city jail to check into the recent activities of Schoelkopf. Los Angeles Salvation Army officials were notified and are continuing their investigation. Schoelkopf was using a Salvation Army meal ticket, issued by Major Strickland as his identification card.

Christmas Carols Through the Ages

Both the Cuming Drug Store and Corona Drug Store have very attractive window displays, showing many articles nicely wrapped any of which would be suitable for gifts for any member of the family. Savers' Drug Store, with its recently completed window improvements, is able to better display their goods and gives the store more of a metropolitan appearance. The Stewart Drug Store has also succeeded in arranging attractive displays. Juanita's Shop, The Froxy, The Moose O' Day and Richard's Dry Goods, all sell the Corona Hardware Store are also attracting attention with their neat displays. Other stores in the city have done their part to induce Coronans to trade at some. Next week promises to be a banner one for the merchants who are prepared to give customers service and a wide selection of Christmas gifts from which to choose a present for anyone.

GOOD KING WENCESLAS

"Good King Wenceslas looked out, On the Feast of Stephen. When the snow lay round about, Deep, and crisp, and even..."

King Wenceslas ruled Bohemia from 928 to 935 and was known for his many kindnesses. Legend has it that he and a servant once carried meat, wine and wood to a peasant through deep snow. The page was overcome by cold, but found himself miraculously warmed by the feet of his master's footstools. Words written in England in 1852 were set to a 16th century folk tune.

Boy, 4, Center of Dozen Death Cases

Caught in the middle of Los Angeles' four-year-old death case is Walter Kendall Daze, four. He is son of Dr. George K. Daze, who has been indicted on charge of murdering his first wife, Doris, in 1935. Mrs. W. D. Schwuchow, mother of dead woman, says first Mrs. Daze told her the boy is not the physician's son and suggests this as possible murder motive. Daze says parents of his deceased wife caused his arrest because they allegedly sought custody of the boy, shown above with doctor's present wife, Mrs. Dorcas Daze.

FINE DISPLAYS OF CHRISTMAS GOODS AVAILABLE HERE

Corona merchants have endeavored to surpass previous attempts to provide attractive window displays for the holidays and a number of them have succeeded in arranging displays which are being complimented. Those persons who have been going to Los Angeles to do their shopping find immense crowds and a real struggle to make their way around, and return home disgruntled with themselves.

At home it is possible to do all the Christmas shopping necessary, as the merchants have stocked their stores with seasonal goods, attractively displayed and the prices are as low or lower than the Los Angeles merchants ask for the same article.

The Town Shop has gone to no little expense and time in arranging their window displays which are being viewed by hundreds of people. An eastern snow scene, showing the home covered with snow, while one of the rooms shows the glow of a fireplace. The artistic arrangement of the interior of the store is also included that Christmas is almost upon us.

They have borrowed and paid back $5,000 in three years from local banks. Crump thanked Corona business men who had cooperated in helping the boys make their projects a success, as well as those aiding in the citrus field days held here last year.

U.S. PAYS ORANGE COUNTY $426,000 FOR RELOCATION

SANTA ANA — A check for $426,000 was received by the board of supervisors Tuesday from the federal government, representing the final payment of funds the county expended for moving utilities out of Prado dam basin for construction of the dam.

The check bears the notation that it was for reimbursement of money expended for relocating the Santa Ana river and the Los Angeles river. The total amount, of approximately $800,000.

In all, congress had earmarked $750,000 to reimburse the county for the removal of the various utilities out of Prado dam basin. It was not indicated when another $140,000 will be received.

When supervisors received the money, they found themselves at a loss to determine where it should be deposited. It is at that point created a federal reimbursement fund control fund.

Supervisors expect later to use the $750,000, when received, for furthering the land-acquisition program for Prado dam. It was reported that the county has created a federal reimbursement fund control fund.

Chairman Willard Smith of the board turned auctioneer and manager to wrangle out a few more dollars for the county than were represented as its due for sale of three houses in Prado dam basin.

The first house, a frame structure of somewhat ancient vintage, went for $140 without any bidding. The second house, a brick structure, was sold for $100 by bid by Walter A. Ludkin. It is located on Corona.

Corona men also bought the other two houses, intending to move them out of Prado dam basin.

The second to be sold, a 7-room house, went for $50 after the bid had been run up by $5 and $10. It was purchased by Dale C. Berner, who said that his mother, one time owned the house which had been the family home.

The third house, of five rooms, was sold for $500 by bid by Verne after the bid was run up from $800.

Supervisors then took under a series of bids for leasing Prado dam lands for grazing and ranching purposes. Largest bid of the three was to be leased to the Jones of Aurora. Lease agreements are expected to be made next Tuesday.

League of Nations Expels Russia

Unprecedented Speed Used

GENEVA, Switzerland — The League of Nations moving at unprecedented speed today expelled Soviet Russia because of the invasion of Finland.

The vote for expulsion by the League council was unanimous though four nations abstained from casting ballots. The abstaining nations were China, Finland, Greece and Yugoslavia.

The vote follows the League machinery came after the Assembly had unanimously voted an expulsion resolution and forwarded it to the council. The countries represented on the council and voting for expulsion included Britain, Poland, Belgium, South Africa, Bolivia, Iran, Yugoslavia, Dominion Republics and Egypt.

Finland abstained from voting to avoid a possible resignation and possibly to prevent increased military retaliations, Rudolf Hoelti, Finland's representative, said.

Telling the delegates that the move against Russia had the "full support of the United Kingdom," Richard Auston Butler, under-secretary for foreign affairs and head of the British delegation, said: "The case we are considering today is the most serious in the chain of aggression in Europe. It follows hard on the attacks by Germany on her weaker neighbors and it is our duty to stand by the Polish whose case we shall not forget."

British Warships Keep Death Watch on German Ship in Uruguay Port

First Lady Shops at Czech Bazaar

That the U. S. administration still recognizes Czechoslovakia as a living nation is shown by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt as she does her Christmas shopping at Czech bazaar in Washington and chats with Mrs. Vladimir Hurban, right, wife of Czechoslovakian minister in U. S. Articles sold were imported before outbreak of war.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay — Sources close to the German government said today that the German man pocketbattleship Admiral Graf Spee, here to bury her head and make repairs after running a naval battle yesterday with three British cruisers "probably will leave within a week."

Guarding against the possibility that the German war vessel would attempt to put out to sea, the British cruiser Achilles kept a death watch yesterday. The Graf Spee determined that it should not escape to raid allied commerce on the high seas. The guns of the fast British cruisers rained shells into the formidable German pocketbattleship last night and forced the retreat of the German vessel. The most spectacular naval engagement of the war.

The story of the battle showed it to have been a fierce fight in which the six and eight inch guns of the cruisers were met against the 11-inch guns of the heavier Graf Spee.

Examination of the 10,000-ton pride of the German navy in the harbor here showed that it had been pierced by at least seven shells from the Ecker, Ajax and Achilles. Part of the superstructure was shot away and probably there was serious damage inside the ship. The Graf Spee lost 38 men killed and 40 wounded including its commander.

"There was no report of casualties from the cruisers although the Ecker apparently was extensively damaged."

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Cordell Hull indicated today that Western Hemisphere republics may consider a diplomatic protest to Great Britain and Germany after the Graf Spee is obtained off the River Plate naval engagement.

Hull said, however, that no action should be expected until the full facts of the contest between the German pocketbattleship Graf Spee and the three British cruisers of the Uruguay-Argentina coast have been obtained.

He indicated that action at that time probably would be confined to consultation among the 21 American republics concerning the apparent violation of the Western Hemisphere safety zone set up by the declaration of Panama and possibly a joint diplomatic protest to the belligerents.

CHURCH DEMOCRACY DEMONSTRATED IN U.S. SAYS HOGAN

"Democracy in the Church is more truly demonstrated in America than in any other place in the world" stated Rev. Daniel Hogan, pastor of the Congregational church, at the meeting of the Present Day club Wednesday, held at the home of Mrs. C. Gully.

The speaker continued, "Democracy in Church is bigger than any form, it cannot be standardized. It is spiritual." Rev. Hogan mentioned that there are twenty Protestant churches and one Catholic church in Corona, and that each of the protestant churches has its own church government, without interference from any one; the churches for education, and where there is a church there is certain to be a school.

At the close of his remarks, Rev. Hogan suggested that as everyone conceded there was nothing better than a church that would be a fine idea for all to put their shoulders to the wheel and help the good cause along.

All of his hearers declared it had been one of the finest talks they had ever heard, and congratulated the speaker on his ability to present his ideas in such an interesting and clever manner.

The next meeting of the club will be held December 27, at the home of Mrs. L. D. Hallogen, 857 Hamner avenue, when a Christmas party will be in order. Mrs. Gully served tea, assisted by Mrs. Fred McMullen.

Dr. L. E. Brown Appointed to Succeed Hall

Dr. L. E. Brown, physician and surgeon of Corona for the past four and one-half years, today was appointed to fill the unexpired term on the Corona Union high school board of education left vacant by the resignation of H. W. Hall last Friday.

Dr. Brown expressed himself as pleased at the honor conferred by H. W. Smith, county superintendent of schools and promised to strive toward maintaining the high standards set by the Corona educational plant in the past.

WORLD PROBLEMS ARE INSTITUTE TOPICS WEDNESDAY

Political, social and economic aspects of the European and Asiatic situation held the attention of the Institute of World Affairs yesterday.

Prof. Lobanov-Rostovsky of U.S.L.A., who discussed "Russian Foreign Policy—New or Old?" expressed the belief that soviet imperialism is rapidly changing into Russian imperialism and that in the balance of world affairs it is to be Russia as a country in the future, and not as a nation strictly devoted to a "revolutionary movement."

Movement by Germany, the speaker has been able to regain their coats.

Fresno Man Named Garner Successor

Council Divides In Making Change Of Police Chief

Ouster of Eli Garner, chief of police for the last 15 years, and appointment of Neil T. MacCollom as his successor, with the change effective Nov. 1, were voted by the city council at a regular meeting last night.

The controversial issue was settled by a three-to-two vote, with Mayor Dan Hukkins and Councilmen Joe Copley and John Wrightman favoring the change and Councilmen Herbert M. Keen and E. R. E. Nonhof voting in opposition.

MacCollom, 41, is inspector of police in Fresno and is in charge of the police training service department. In that capacity he also heads the crime prevention and juvenile delinquency details. He has civil service rating and is considered an expert marksmen. His salary was set at $3000 monthly.

Offered Position
In ousting Garner as chief, the council offered him a position of captain of police at a salary of $175 monthly. His decision has not been revealed.

The council action followed a heated discussion on the issue. After Councilman Copley had reported that an extensive survey of possible police chiefs had resulted in the recommendation of five applicants, of whom he suggested MacCollom, the council took a 45-minute recess.

Mayor Hukkins asked for a police committee report. Councilman Copley responded that for the last year he had been studying the situation and was convinced that changes in the police department should be effected for the welfare of the department and the city. His investigation, he added, had assured him the juvenile delinquent problem would be benefited by a change.

Advocate Change
"Chief Garner is a good officer and has done a good job and should be retained," Councilman Copley declared, continuing, he said, "I feel that we should have a man with some training to handle the present situation and, Chief Garner will accept suggestion that he remain on the force in the capacity of second in command as captain of police."

Conceded that the assertions did not represent the consensus of the police department, of which he also is a member, he agreed only that Chief Garner should be retained.

After attorneys had arranged the necessary legal steps, MacCollom was to be removed to San Mateo county jail to face trial under California's "Little Lindbergh" law. If convicted, MacCollom faces life imprisonment only if the victim is harmed.

Operations of the P. J. Wetzel silica plant in Tamesha canyon were explained to members of the Twenty-Third club by Mgr. Grant Van Valin at a dinner meeting last night in Tops cafe.

Van Valin, who is a member of the advisory group for the club's industry promotion campaign, outlined the procedure for mining silica sand. The product, he added, is used principally in glass making and in blasting.

The plant commenced operations here in 1928.

The speaker was introduced by Clyde Long, president chairman. Announcement of the baseball series between the Twenty-Third and El Paso teams, in which another game is slated tonight, was made by Robert McPherrin.

Fres. Glen T. James presided at the meeting, which had an attendance of 24, including Robert Wallace, past president, as a

Japan, Germany Reach Decision On Defense Pact

Implications of Alliance Termed 'Most Serious'

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Authoritative advice from Tokyo, said today that Japan and Germany had agreed in principle on a defensive alliance which would become effective if the United States and Great Britain collaborated in such matters as the status of the Great British Far Eastern naval base at Singapore.

Described as provisional in its present stage, the alliance, if it is the French concession and most of its policy of "non-involvement" in the war, the advisors said.

As the news reached here, there was the sudden threat of a major effort, directly involving American interests in Shanghai. There were indications that the Japanese might seek control of the International Settlement at any hour.

The situation was so serious potentially that Gen. Thomas C. Hart, commander-in-chief of the United States Asiatic fleet, who arrived here late today from Tokyo to confer with American naval, military and consular officials on the possible evacuation of Americans from China, Japan and Manchukuo in event of an emergency.

Germany, under the agreement reached in Tokyo, would use its good offices as between Russia and Russia, it was said, thus seeking to free Japan for execution of its new program of expansion westward.

Proposed by Nazis
The alliance was proposed by Germany, according to Tokyo dispatches, and seemed aimed in great part at diverting the attention of the United States in the interest of the new program of expansion westward.

Troops Leave Rather Than Face Big Battle

Negotiations End Conflict in Indo-China Between French and Japanese Troops

LONDON—(U.P.)—An official statement tonight said all allied forces were being withdrawn from Dakar, the French port on the west coast of Africa. The withdrawal was ordered because it was realized that a victory could not be achieved without a major battle, the statement said.

The decision to withdraw came after army and navy defenders had fought on against big British attacks, after scoring hits on three big warships off the coast and staging an air attack on Gibraltar.

The British battleship Barham or Resolution and the 10,000-ton cruiser Kent were hit and damaged during an engagement this morning with French warships, the official statement said. In addition, it was asserted officially that the grand British battle cruiser Renown was hit by French guns on Tuesday.

Battle Renewed
The engagement this morning, beginning 10 a.m., followed new bombardment of Dakar by British naval units, the official statement said. One of two British battleships participating in the shelling were torpedoed and forced to leave the scene.

An official Vichy source asserted that reinforcements of the Free France movement extended throughout France, that members of the army and government officials were among its agents and that Free-France propaganda was circulating widely. Free France agents are also being left with superintendents in Paris office buildings and apartments, and distribution to tenants, it was said.

No Appeal Offered
A spokesman warned that agents of the Free France movement were liable to special martial which might sentence them to die within 48 hours without hope of appeal.

It was evident that the government intended to make a bitter fight to retain Dakar.

Seaworthy warships, apparently were ordered to move to the front when the foreign minister in Vichy announced earlier that the Free France movement was being organized in Haiphong, had negotiated successfully the termination of Japanese aggression in Indochina, ending fighting between Japanese and French forces north of Hanoi.

Bombs and Coasting
Bombing continued by the British Isles and North strongholds, a London dispatch reporting that Royal Air Force bombers succeeded in setting on fire plants, saw factories and other objectives in the heart of Berlin, the air ministry said today after British bombers had bombed the city.

Explosions at German invasion bases on the French coast, the ministry said, were increasing in intensity with the dropping of German super-bombs which left the middle of the capital in shambles.

WILLIE PREPARES FOR FARM TALK IN OMAHA

ABOARD WILLIE K. TRAVEL ROUTE TO FARGO, N. D.—(U.P.)—Republican Presidential Nominee Wendell L. Willkie worked on the major farm speech of his campaign today as his train rolled east out of Montana's country into the wheat lands of North Dakota.

Willkie fired another shot in his drive for labor votes in Butte last night when he charged in a statement made by President Roosevelt in 1937 caused war not only the workers, but also the farmer, to grow up in this country.

He noted that the public protest in Montana was identical with that of Mr. Roosevelt. It elected, Willkie said, to choose a secretary of the farm union, and to get the farm union to grow up in this country.

He stands your protest, Willkie said, and to get the farm union to grow up in this country.

RUSH OF VOLUNTEERS WILL CUT NUMBER OF DRAFTEE

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt today signed a resolution appropriating $388,000,000 to provide adequate housing facilities for conscripts called up for one year's compulsory military training. The appropriation which includes $874,000 for buying land was rushed through congress last week in order to expedite the vast building program.

The measure was signed as selective officials here expected that voluntary enlistments after registration day would make it unnecessary to draft many men for the first contingent of 400,000 conscripts.

Under impetus of a warm sun, temperatures shot to 90 degrees in Corona this afternoon for peak recording of the month.

The high temperatures combined with delay in fall rains, severe and fire conditions in an alarming stage, particularly in mountain areas now thronged with deer hunters.

Snow Blankets Santa Ana Ridge For First Time

Driving Wind and Rainstorm Strikes Corona District

A mantle of white covered the main divide of the Santa Ana mountain range for the first time this winter as snow accompanied a driving wind and rainstorm which struck Corona and the rest of the Southland this morning.

The snowstorm, which hit the mountain ridge almost as suddenly as the combined wind and rainstorm struck here, deposited three inches of snow in an hour and a half, according to information received at the Forest Service ranger station. Winds of nearly 50-mile-an-hour velocity were reported.

Peak snowed on San Jacinto peak, which reaches to a height of 5680 feet, and other surrounding mountains. The snow apparently did not fall below the 5000-foot elevation.

A Forest Service ERA crew, with Joe Platz and Raymond Padon in charge, was caught in the storm and forced to return to its headquarters.

Snow seldom falls on the Santa Ana range, as a general rule only a few flurries intermingling with the rain to melt before it is reported.

Minor damage was reported from the high wind which marked the start of the rainstorm this morning. Several signs and trees were toppled in the city.

More extensive damage to travel orange trees was believed to have resulted because the fruit has been dropping and is loose on the trees. Valencia and lemons were not damaged.

According to Edward Davis, recording, amounted to 45 of an inch by mid-afternoon, bringing the season's total to 24.25 inches.

More in Prospect

The forecast called for cloudy weather to continue with moderate to heavy rains late afternoon and showers tonight and tomorrow.

Several large limbs from a pepper tree at the N. O. Hanson property at 512 Washington street, broke during the storm, temporarily hindering traffic on the street. Among the signs toppled was one of the Hall used car lot on East Sixth street.

Student Flyer Hurt in Crash

Plane Noses Over In Takeoff Here

Extent of injuries to L. L. Pratt of the medical corps of Fort McArthur still was unknown today, but he was reported to have sustained a crack-up of a small training plane late yesterday afternoon on the flight to Los Angeles. The plane crashed and shrank up and some internal injuries were probable. He was taken by Hoover & Bell ambulance from the field to Loma Linda sanitarium. The ship he was flying apparently ran out of gasoline about 5 p.m.

Pratt had rented the Aeronca Tandem training plane at the Arlington airport and come to Corona where he took up passengers although he allegedly was not licensed to carry passengers. He rented the plane for student practice, already having his student license.

The accident occurred when he left the airport to return to Arlington with the ship. The plane apparently was out of gas and dropped to the ground on the take-off and nosed over.

Pratt was able to walk away from the ship, which was damaged badly.

Balkan Nation Girds For Possible Attack

Britain Checks Up Biggest Shocks In Naval Warfare

Gen. Richard Dusen-Simovich, Yugoslavia's premier, tonight ordered all citizens to stand by at their homes ready "to guard the door" if necessary and declared that "army, air force and navy of our kingdom" are ready to fulfill their duties.

Meanwhile, Great Britain celebrated today her most notable naval success of the war—the crippling blow at Italy's battered fleet as Balkan events moved swiftly towards a showdown between Germany and Yugoslavia. Belgrade reported that Yugoslavia found the axis pact unacceptable and would not become a non-aggression agreement in its place.

There was a hint in Berlin that anything short of a complete swing of Yugoslavia into a pro-axis policy would be regarded as satisfactory. German spy-buses and the German press had all their emphasis on the maltreatment of German nationals and German property in Yugoslavia and Germany's determination to bring the country as quickly as possible.

Ministers Return

It was said in Berlin that the German Ministers returned from Berlin night to the German capital shortly after the Yugoslav minister had already been sent back to Belgrade.

Rome claimed that Yugoslavia was mobilizing troops along the Albanian, Greek and Hungarian frontiers. The Yugoslav government is believed to have a disagreement between the Croats on the border but Belgrade reported that progress toward a Croat-Serb coalition in the face of the emergency was being made. It was believed, meanwhile, that the British are making last-minute preparations for meeting a German attack upon both Greece and Yugoslavia.

Speculation Over Seizures Arises

WASHINGTON (AP) — The seizure of 85 German, Italian and Danish merchant ships caused officials to speculate whether they would be pressed into American service.

The immigration service issued arrest warrants instituting deportation proceedings against approximately 875 seamen removed from 28 Italian and two German vessels taken into custody by the United States.

Maritime commission and Coast Guard officials insisted that the seizures were made with suddenness over the week-end, were intended to prevent sabotage and that it was not preliminary to conscription and American use.

Twenty of the 28 Italian ships seized had been sabotaged by their crews, some so severely that they constituted menaces to navigation and property in the port in which they were berthed.

"Battle Raging"

The "battle of the Atlantic" now is raging with German submarines, surface raiders and air planes attempting to destroy British sea-lanes and drive the convoys into capitulation. Britain already has lost more than 5,000,000 tons of merchant shipping and her crew, some so severely that they constituted menaces to navigation and property in the port in which they were berthed.

Reich is Named Defendant in Big Spy Ring Case

NEW YORK.—(UP)—A federal grand jury today gave "the government of the German Reich" as a co-conspirator with 33 men and women indicted on charges of espionage against the United States. The grand jury in Brooklyn federal court charged 33 of the defendants, all of whom were rounded up last night, with failure to register as agents of a foreign power and the entire 33 with conspiracy to disclose defense information to a foreign power.

Arrangement Set One of the defendants, all of whom face maximum penalties ranging up to 22 years' imprisonment and $10,000 fines each, was arraigned before the grand jury yesterday. Heinrich Clausen, 43, German-naturalized American citizen, an alleged courier arrested aboard the S. S. Argentina in Brazil and brought to this country yesterday, was first to appear before Federal Judge Robert A. Inch. He pleaded guilty to both counts and was held for sentencing Sept. 3.

Started in 1938 The spring, according to the indictment, had its inception April 1, 1938, when the German government, through a network which had ramifications throughout the world started "collecting and receiving" information and material from the United States of a military, naval, commercial and industrial nature. From April, 1938, until the present, the indictment says, the defendants operated in Germany in Detroit, Santa Monica and numerous foreign cities, on ships coming from Germany and in other places to the grand jury officers unknown.

Parents to Pay For Fire Costs

Juveniles Admit Setting Blaze Efforts of three juveniles to smoke out bees to secure honey, an act which resulted in the Holy Jim fire of June 29 in the Trabuco district of Cleveland National Forest, will cost their parents approximately $100, it was determined at a hearing in Orange county court in Santa Ana yesterday afternoon. In an investigation of the fire which burned 50 acres of brush and grassland at the mouth of Holy Jim canyon, adjacent to Trabuco canyon on the Orange side of the National Forest, the Forest Service secured confessions from the three juveniles, one of whom is 17 years of age and the other two 16, and filed the court action.

The investigation, conducted by Protective Assistant William F. Mann of the Trabuco district and Associate Supervisor J. C. Kern of the San Diego headquarters office, disclosed that the fire was a result of carelessness of the boys in failing to stomp out the fire after they had smoked out the bees and secured the honey. In the court action yesterday parents of the three agreed to pay the suppression costs incurred in quelling the fire. The costs will amount to $100 although the defendant figures will be set by the San Diego office. One of the boys is the son of a summer cabin residents in Trabuco canyon and the other two were guests there.

Attack Levelled Against County Counsel Position Attacking the creation of a new county office, a committee representing the Riverside County Bar Association yesterday recommended that the board of supervisors refer the matter of forming the office of county counsel to the grand jury for investigation as to its necessity and desirability. Earl Redwine to the office of county counsel and naming Deputy Diet. Atty. John Nebbett as its successor, a district attorney, effective Oct. 15, the board adjourned without taking action on the recommendation.

Fire Is Burning In Hoag Canyon

Flames Threaten Old SRA Camp Spreading with lightning-like speed through parched vegetation, flames this afternoon blackened several hundred acres of brushland in Hoag canyon, a tributary of Temescal canyon, and top-ends threatened the old Temescal SRA camp for single men and a nearby ranch house. Although the flames were subdued before reaching the camp, smoke from fires deeper in the canyon still was pouring over the valley late this afternoon. Three State Division of Forestry trucks were assigned to fight the blaze with Assistant Ranger Waldon Sherman of the Norco branch in charge. Other trucks were dispatched from Elsinore and Perris and two Forest Service tankers and crews were placed on stand-by orders in case of need. The fire was burning near the old Blue Diamond quarry road about five miles southeast of Corona. Flames first were noticed about noon and within two hours had spread over the canyon and surrounding hillides. The camp buildings, owned by the Temescal Water Co. and under lease to the Forest Service, have been used in recent years for an SRA camp for single men and a Civil Camp. They are unoccupied at present and only a caretaker is stationed there. During the course of the fire, Sherman and his crew were called to extinguish another blaze on Hammer avenue a short distance north of the Y.

Nazis Claim Capture Of Ukraine Capital

Kiev Downfall Listed in Series Of Big Successes German reports today said without official confirmation that Nazi troops have smashed through Kiev, third city of the Soviet, and are methodically fighting their way through the Ukraine capital, streak by streak. Berlin issued a series of reports of Nazi successes on the Russian front, claiming that in the northeast columns were smashing on towards Leningrad and in the central sector near Vitebsk, 300 miles west of Moscow, the final force in the Stalin series had been captured. To these sweeping Nazi claims, Russian spokesmen replied with a report in the official Russian newspaper Izvestia that a smashing counter-attack on the Smolensk sector of the central front had driven the Germans back 20 miles west of the Diener, apparently wiping out the Nazi main force in this region.

The most serious Nazi claim was that made by unofficial but reliable Berlin sources that Kiev had been entered by a great industrial center and the capital of the rich Ukraine wheat region. This report came almost 72 hours after a statement by the Nazi high command last Saturday evening that German troops now "stand before Kiev". There was no indication what had transpired during the 72-hour period during which presumably the German troops have been "standing" before the Ukraine capital. Both the German and Russian high command were silent in their reports of the battle but official Nazi and Soviet reports told off-record details, artillery and infantry encounters. Ends Speculation In London Prime Minister Winston Churchill ended speculation regarding the status of Russo-British relations with a declaration that the two powers are formally allied. The question of America's relation to the war again aroused speculation with Washington reports that Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, made a charge that President Roosevelt was displaying an unusually aggressive tone toward the United States, the Berlin press chorus a charge that President Roosevelt had ordered American naval vessels to shoot at German ships. Orders to Navy Basis of Charge MORNING NEWS.—(UP)—All Berlin morning newspapers spread a blast of denunciation of President Roosevelt across their first pages today on the allegation that he had ordered the United States fleet to slip into the German waters and planes without warning. The basis for the charge was a dispatch to the Aftonbladet from Stockholm quoting articles of the newspaper stating that he had ordered the United States fleet to slip into the German waters and planes without warning. REPORT OF JAPAN'S HARBOR CLOSING IS PROBED

SHANGHAI.—(UP)—Foreign naval men and foreign shippers were without information today of reports that Japan had closed the harbor of Kobe, on the Japanese south coast, for 30 days. They suggested that the report might have had its origin in the cancellation of passenger bookings on one ship which left for Kobe today, possibly because of naval maneuvers in the area. So far as they were informed, said future sailings were unaffected by the cancellation.

Stimson and Hull Urge Immediate Repeal of Ban

War Secretary Charges Measure Is 'Humiliating'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secy. of War Henry L. Stimson today urged immediate repeal of the "humiliating" provision of the neutrality law banning arming of American merchantmen in order to re-establish the nation's "self-respect upon the ocean."

Stimson was the second cabinet member to appear before the house foreign affairs committee in support of immediate repeal of the ban on arming merchant ships and ultimate elimination of neutrality law provisions that bar American ships from combat zones.

He testified after Secy. of State Cordell Hull told the committee the German government had exhibited a complete disregard of the rules of sea warfare and was sinking merchant vessels indiscriminately in the sea in its plans of world conquest.

The committee began secret hearings on the armed ship bill August 29 and the "gun rule" by Republican members.

Denunciation of the hearings came after Chairman Sol Bloom, D. N. Y., of the foreign affairs committee announced that they would be limited to two days. The procedure is expected to bar all amendments to the bill which would repeal section 6 of the neutrality act that prohibits the arming of merchant ships. A final vote in the house is expected by Friday night.

Two Republican members of the committee—Rep. Hamilton Fish, R. N. Y., and George Folger, T. Ham., R. Mass., both vigorous opponents of the president's foreign policy, 40 and 41, following the hearings. Fish said he wanted to present 30 witnesses.

Two Are Injured In Local Mishaps

Damage Is Minor For Five Crashes

Two persons incurred minor injuries in a series of five accidents in the Corona city limits over the week-end.

Injured were Mrs. L. W. Deering, 808 Victor avenue, Inglewood, and Joseph Michel of Murietta Hot Springs in a mishap which occurred at 8:15 last night at Fuller and Magnolia avenues.

Michel, driver of a car going south on Fuller, apparently failed to see a curb at the intersection with Magnolia, and the vehicle jumped a storm drain and struck a bank on Magnolia.

Both occupants were taken to the Corona hospital by passing motorists. Mrs. Deering was treated for a fractured right arm and then was taken by car to her home in Inglewood. Michel was released after first-aid treatment for a minor forehead injury.

Searchers Seek Mangled Bodies In Plane Crash

Officials Assume Seven Occupants Of Ship Killed

BEAUMONT (AP)—Army officers said today that they "assume" all seven men aboard a twin-motored bomber had died in the wreckage but that the plane and its crew were so mangled they could not locate all the bodies.

The ship, en route from Albuquerque, N. M., to March Field crashed into level ground during a fog late yesterday. It exploded on impact and searchers said there was no piece remaining more than a foot in length.

The occupants were:
 Lt. J. E. Overstreet, fourth interceptor group.
 Lt. J. S. Park, fourth air base group.
 Lt. J. W. Templeton, 82nd air base group.
 Sgt. R. J. Thomas, ninth pursuit wing.
 Sgt. D. B. Bell, ninth pursuit wing.
 Sgt. R. J. Farlow, ninth pursuit wing.

Corporal A. A. Smith, Army officer believed the accident was caused by the rain and fog which had lowered the flying ceiling to zero. Although the area over which the plane was flying, about 20 miles from its destination, is mountainous the immediate vicinity of the crash is level.

A farmer whose name was not learned told Deputy Sheriff Ralph Smith that the big ship flew over the fog and veered over his house about three miles from where it crashed.

The plane was up about 50 feet when it flew over my house and I wondered why it was so low," he said. "It sounded as if the engine suddenly quit and the propeller Ten came the explosion. It shook the house it was so great."

The season's initial rain preceded last year's first downfall by 14 days. A total of 79 of an inch of moisture was recorded in the first rain fall on Oct. 26.

Because of the limited moisture, which alleviated the fire hazard only temporarily, the Cleveland National Forest will not open any of the district to deer hunting. Dispatcher Harvey B. Mpeck announced today.

Recapitulation of only 13 of an inch was recorded at the ranger station on East Sixth street. Heaviest downfall in this area apparently was 47 of an inch at San Juan guard station. Temescal guard station recorded 18 of an inch.

The storm, which brought thunder, lightning and rain to the Southern, appeared to have blown east today. No damage was reported from the storm, although lightning short-circuited lights momentarily in the metropolitan area.

British are Rumored Landing on Red Soil

Report of B.E.F. Venture Emanates From Stockholm

Arrival of a British expeditionary force in the Soviet union was reported from Stockholm without confirmation to-day as Adolf Hitler's armies attempted a vast encirclement attack to sweep around reinforced Soviet defense lines and take Moscow from the rear.

Dispatches from the Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet by way of Finland said that a British force reportedly nearing "several tens of thousands" had been landed at Archangel, scene of American military operations after the World war, to supplement the flow of allied war materials to the hard-pressed Red army. London declined to comment on the report.

Canadian headquarters at Ottawa also declined comment on suggestions that Canadian troops were involved in the reported expedition but wide speculation was aroused by disclosure that the British command's forces being trained for assault landings and raids, however, would not be likely to be used for such an expedition.

A number of British troops trained in Iceland have been released by the United States occupation forces there and presumably would be used for such an expedition into northern regions. The urgency of British aid to (Continued on Page Two)

British Bombers Resume Raids

Attack Involves Wide Offensives

LONDON (AP)—Resuming their day and night offensive, British bombing formations, escorted by heavy formations of fighters, sped over the southern coast today towards occupied France after a night in which nearly 400 long range bombers planned an attack on the greatest Royal Air Force raids on Germany.

Four-motored bombing planes, carrying new types of high-detractive bombs, rained targets in Bavaria, the Rhineland and northwestern Germany.

It was the first British attack on Bavaria since Nov. 8, 1940, when Royal Air Force planes bombed Munich and hit the famous opera house there. Three persons had been killed. One house was destroyed.

His Wide Area Aviation quarters estimated that since Friday night, when improved weather permitted a resumption of the British aerial offensive, more than 1000 British planes had attacked targets ranging from Norway through Germany to occupied France.

While British bomber command planes were attacking Germany, planes of the coastal command were in unusually close attack on the French invasion coast between Boulogne and Calais after blowing up two German ships in the channel during the afternoon. A United Press observer on the English coast reported that bombings were being planned from the coast during the night. The bombings would be a great test between British and German forces.

Allies Score Airplane Triumph

Five or Six of Jap Warships Are Sunk or Damaged

Allies in Control Over New Guinea And New Britain

By UNITED PRESS

American-led forces of the United Nations claimed air superiority on the approaches to Australia today.

This was the first allied triumph in the bitter struggle to launch counterblows against Japan from New Guinea to Burma and from the Australian Air Minister A. S. Drakeford said that allied planes had wrested control from the Japanese over New Guinea and New Britain, where a tenth of the Japanese cruiser strength—at least five or six warships—had been sunk or damaged. That, Drakeford said, meant a strategic turning point in the mobilization of United Nations power for the Southwestern Pacific counteroffensive.

Allies Deliver Blows

The importance of the American-led counterblows now operating on the front north of Australia was emphasized by a series of blows against the enemy in the main-battle zone, including:

1. Flots in the Markham valley of New Guinea forced the Japanese to evacuate 27,000 troops, 27 miles from Nadzab to the north coast invasion base of Lae.
2. Allied air defenses appeared to be improving rapidly against new Japanese raids on Darwin and Port Moresby, which apparently did not suffer damage, and even in the Philippines, where perhaps the Japanese shot down an enemy bomber at the extraordinary altitude of 27,000 feet.
3. Chinese troops fighting in central Burma repeatedly counter-attacked reinforced Japanese assault columns and seized several villages in the Tangson sector where the allied position was serious but the enemy was paying perhaps the highest toll of the Pacific war for every yard of advance. Old Tin Mine Near Corona May Operate To Produce Metal Vitrally Needed by Country

Made in Canada

Workmen in a Canadian plant ladies TNT into a heavy shell casing. Looks like a bakery scene, but it isn't, not by a long shot.

Private Interests To Have Federal Financial Aid

Tests on Site Reported to Have Been Made Already

The old tin mine, which operated many years ago about seven miles from Corona in Tennessee canyon near what was later the Blue Diamond stone quarry, is to be reopened, it is understood.

Mining interests are attempting to secure government financial assistance in reopening the old mine. The operation is expected to be tremendously costly, because of the low grades of tin ore, although vast quantities of tin are believed to be available.

Men At Work On Site

Men have been at work on the site recently making certain necessary tests, it is reported. Preliminary discussions have been held regarding the supply of electrical power to be used.

The country is in desperate need of tin at this time, which probably accounts for the fact that the local operation is to be resumed. Shipments of tin from the far east have been stopped by the war.

The tin mine originally was financed by an English syndicate and many of the miners working there were from Cornwall mines in the old country.

Most of the equipment and machinery was English manufacture. When the mine was abandoned, dishes, table linens and other supplies were sold at auction. Failure to join any union or Irish quality and were bought by many residents here at that time.

Resumption Attempted Once

In more recent years a group attempted to put the mine on a production basis, but with the depression and a resulting shortage of funds the work came to a halt. Several thousand dollars were spent in retrimbering the mine, pumping the water from the lower levels and installing some new machinery. The attempt failed because the mine was placed in operation and "work" was again suspended. The machinery was hauled away and the mine shaft covered.

A few old timers around Corona still possess some of the tin which came from the local mine.

Vice President In Clash With Martin L. Dies

Letter Says Board Headed by Wallace Lists Radicals

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Henry A. Wallace's comparison of Rep. Martin Dies' activities with those of a radical chief Joseph Goebbels suggested today a vigorous fight in the house when Dies' committee on un-American activities seeks funds to continue its investigation.

Dies' committee recently was authorized by the house to continue for another year. But no funds have been voted yet and Dies is seeking $500,000. Extension of the committee was vigorously contested by Dies' opponents.

Wallace's report that such statements from Dies and "others of his kind with an intense itch for publicity" might as well come from Goebbels. The effect of morale would be less damaging, he said, "if Mr. Dies were on the Hitler payroll."

Tex. home with the statement that he would "not be silenced by any attempt to impeding my motives."

"Mr. Wallace accuses me of sneering, yet he attempts to smear me by impugning my patriotism. Dies' committee recently was voted authorization by the house to continue for another year. But no funds have been voted yet and Dies is seeking $500,000. Extension of the committee was vigorously contested by Dies' opponents." (Continued on Page Five)

COMMUNITY CHEST DRIVE TO OPEN ON APRIL 6

The annual Corona-Nature Community Chest campaign is scheduled to open one week from today, Monday, April 6.

George E. Stanley, campaign director and Ben H. Sampson, chairman of Commerce secretary, expect to be busy this week outlining plans for the campaign and contacting various workers.

The quota this year is $4200, which is only slightly more than last year, although a definite need for more money is reported by several of the participating organizations because of the war situation.

Nazi Submarine Base Ruined in British Attack

Claim Germans Will Need Year To Repair Damage

LONDON (AP)—British naval and commando forces which raided St. Nazaire on the French invasion coast Saturday left that great German submarine base a blazing nightmare of ruin, eyewitnesses said today.

They told the Germans up to one year to repair the dock gate, the submarine moorings, the harbor installations, the power houses, the bridges and the key buildings which the British forces blew up, it appeared certain.

British pilots with some commandos, but reliable quarters said German claims that 400 men were killed or captured were gross exaggerations.

More Than 100 Lost

"One hundred would probably be an over-statement," an informant said.

Those who came back described the submarine base as a "ruined city." (Continued on Page Six)

Chinese Troops Hurl Back Japs

American Leaders Burma Defenders

NEW DELHI (AP)—Chinese troops of Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's 8th and 9th armies were reported hurling back waves after waves of desperately attacking Japanese about Tsinan around Tsinan on the Burma front today.

Chinese troops held their lines against a series of ferocious attacks, it was said, and not only broke every wave of the Japanese attackers but took some Japanese prisoners.

Not content with taking the role of defenders, the Chinese Saturday launched a series of counterattacks, Mandalay dispatches asserted, and took several small villages.

War Council in Pacific Created

Members to Sit in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Creation of a Pacific war council which will sit in Washington was announced today by President Roosevelt.

Membership of the council, which will hold its first meeting at the White House Wednesday, includes Australia, New Zealand, the Netherlands, Canada, China, Great Britain and the United States.

It is imperative that all of the United Nations now actively engaged in the Pacific conflict consider together matters of policy relating to our joint war effort.

He explained that the new council "will be in intimate contact with a similar body in London."

Southern Pacific Bridges Fired

Suspect Arsonists Or Saboteurs

NILAND (AP)—Investigators said today that arsonists or saboteurs had destroyed two railroad trestles on the vital Southern Pacific main line, 11 miles east of here, in a deliberate attempt to wreck the fast Argonaut passenger train and disrupt traffic.

The Argonaut engineer, William Matlock, noted a dull red glow on the tracks ahead after the automatic block signal flashed a red warning. He halted the train, carrying 150 passengers, a half mile from the burning bridges.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents from San Diego found Imperial county authorities and railroad police in an examination of the trestles. They reported that some of the timbers had been doused with oil and said the fire had been set by arsonists or saboteurs.

Washington Has 18 Inch Snowfall

Is Heaviest March Storm in 33 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—The capital was slowly recovering today from a paralyzing 18-inch snowstorm that smashed power and telephone lines, disrupted the already over-burdened transportation system and caused damage estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Government workers, following the advice of the American Automobile association, left for work an hour ahead of schedule this morning. Many motorists found themselves virtually marooned by the heavy snow.

The freak 30-hour blizzard was the heaviest for March in 33 years and Washingtonians, who retired Saturday night during a mild rain-snow Sunday morning, find themselves virtually marooned by 18 inches of snow, falling trees across their lawns and doorways, and many without lights and heat.

The famous Japanese cherry trees which began to bud last week and which scheduled to blossom next Sunday were bent down by the heavy snow.

It had been an unusually mild winter in the capital and until this week and there had been only an occasional snow.

In New York the elements made an attempt at a blizzard, but the temperature was a little too high and the heavy snow turned to water and slush almost as soon as it hit the ground.

Original Tin Mine Company Minutes In 1891 Show Stockholders' Enthusiasm for Project

The following information, taken from the South Beach side Dec. dated Jan. 2, 1892, concerning a meeting of stockholders in the Corona tin mine, is especially interesting now, inasmuch as it is reported that plans are being made to reopen the mine.

A record taken from "Mining World and Engineering Record" of London, England, dated Dec. 5, 1891, tells of the change in the management of San Jacinto Estate, Limited, and the development of the tin mine near Corona.

Sir John Stokes presided at the meeting of stockholders and D. L. Schomburg was the secretary of the meeting which was held in Winchester House.

The article tells first of the report and accounts of the company for the year ending June 30, 1891. In the report the directors told the stockholders of the change in the management of the mine, and thought it necessary for them to make in the California property and in the system of developing the mine. The directors had been to construct a reduction works in the valley and to take the ore down to the works to be reduced. As the road had not been built and as the machinery could not be moved for lack of roads, the directors adopted the experts' advice and had the machinery erected at the mouth of the mine. At the beginning only one battery was erected to take care of the crushing, which was sufficient to take care of the early output but three more batteries had to be erected as the work progressed.

Blueprints Displayed

Captain Harris was the manager in charge of the workings and had been working on the development of the mine proper, the former manager having devoted the major part of his time to the constructing of buildings and also the construction of a dam. The stockholders at the meeting explained with the use of blueprints, the main shaft and the Williams shaft. The main shaft had been sunk 30 feet to meet this level and 60 feet below that to a lower level. The Williams shaft had been sunk 30 feet to meet this level and then 30 feet below that and still going down. This mine which 65 feet has been sunk has been carried 95 feet or more and got into paying lode which was a very good prospect. The speaker went on to state that he had seen the various shafts and their particular positions. He stated that the first furnace built for smelting was too small and that a new and larger furnace had been built and would be put into operation the following week.

The manager, Capt. Harris, reported to turn out 25 tons of tin in the month of December, 1891, and the one battery in use would sufficient strength to crush 20 tons of ore daily which should yield two tons of metal a day, selling at 100 pounds a ton. The cost of the mining of a ton of tin was not exactly known, stated the speaker, but it is not believed to be more than one-fourth of the selling price.

Dam Called Unsatisfactory

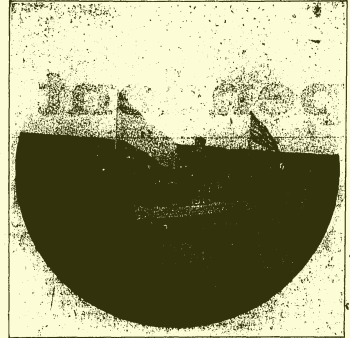

The report went on to tell of the dam which had been constructed and it seemed that the foundation had been none too secure and was not satisfactory. The speaker stated that as the mine developed it would be necessary to procure the water which he so close by and that it would prove very valuable to them at a later date. He also stated that he mine was everything that had been said of it.

"The mine is under our feet and we are merely wanting bringing to the surface."

A Mr. Purcell, a mining engineer from California, was then introduced and he told of his visit to the property. He stated that the company had between 45,000 and 100,000 acres of land, mostly hill land and partly land for agricultural purposes and that the tin deposits were in the hills. The engineer told of the interest in California in this mine, that the tin lodes, about 30 in number, run parallel north and south, extending about 4 1/2 miles across. Of these lodes only one has been worked in the low part of the hills.

Mill Does Good Work

As these mines were located on the tops of hills, the matter of getting water for the cleaning and reducing the ore was of primary importance. The engineer, however, had accompanied Harris into the mine and as a result of the opinion that as the mine was made deeper and sufficient water to meet the needs and since his coming to the mine from Capt. Harris had told him that a small mill doing the work would be a great help, he had just stamped out the plans for a small mill. The water was to be taken from the dam but it was not to be used for anything else.

Here is shown Governor Markham of California, who honored Corona with his presence upon the occasion of a celebration marking the opening of the local tin mine. On the platform beside him is a pile of tin bars mined here. Behind him is his special train, standing near the Santa Fe station.

Go4 Mine Lapsed

As to the gold mine it was leased for 10 years at a low rental and the company was to have 20 per cent of the gross profits from gold workings.

The question of when the four batteries would be at work was answered by the chairman when he stated that the workings would depend on two things, when they got ore and water enough to work them and when they had sufficient money to complete them. The batteries and concentrators for the head were on the ground but more money was needed to secure more concentrators for dressing the ore. The directors and stockholders were considerably upset over the handling of the money by the former manager, Mr. Robinson who had been purchased with the estate, as manager. Mr. Robinson maintained that the mine was a dry mine and that one could not be mined without water, therefore, the terrific expenditure for the building of the dam which proved useless. Mr. Robinson, however, said that he had built a tunnel from the mine to the Temescal reservoir, dam several miles away and at the cost of several thousand pounds. At this point the board decided to send Captain Harris over from Cornwall. He differed from Mr. Robinson in that he said the mine would be a wet mine or there would be no tin. Mr. Robinson arrived he ordered the machinery set at the mouth of the mine where he said there would be plenty of water for the workings that they were in water strata and as they soon found out there was plenty of water.

Americans Wanted Land

The report went on to state that Americans were very anxious to buy back the land not only for the value of the mine but for political reasons. A statement in the account said that as to the McKinley tariff, they even said the presidential election turns on this property. It can be found at the San Jacinto estate to give a large proportion in America. The McKinley tariff would put a duty all foreign tin and that that was the object of one great party in America. The object of the other party, the Democrats, was to prevent that being done.

Capt. Harris had promised that although there would be only 25 working days during the month of December, he would see that 25 tons were turned out. That amount being only one-fifth of the whole amount of tin that has been produced from the whole number of mines, not merely during the time this company has had them, but when they were worked by other people. The deeper the mine is going, the more valuable it is becoming and he said he would be

Discuss McKinley Tariff

A Mr. Freeman then asked more questions and went into a lengthy discussion of the McKinley tariff act which dealt with the exporting of ores. One of the shareholders demanded to know if the delay in development of the mine was caused by delay in delivery of the machinery for mining or some other cause. His request was not answered.

Mr. Ross then spoke and told of knowledge of a combine in France, Belgium and the United States, who were interested in buying the California property, and that this combine figures the present stockholders would spend considerable money in the development and then leave the mine whereby they might buy it quite reasonable and make a fortune. He also told that a syndicate had also been organized whereby they had sent two medical men to examine South Riverside for the purpose of putting up a sanitarium. They reported satisfactorily on the land but it was not made public as they wished to get the land for a low price. He also explained that the land had formerly belonged to an old Spanish marquis who had grazing on the land and was quite content to sell it for a moderate sum.

Eventually the land was offered for sale in England where the report stated it was sold much to the annoyance of the California people.

The chairman then speaking further told that the sum of 1504 pounds had been set down for the mine's development, the permanent works, including machinery and plant were all put up for the purpose of developing the mine. He stated that he had been told if he had any return on the water and answered in the negative, due to the fact that water put up to the mine would be used for nothing but to run the machinery and pump up the water. The water was to be taken from the dam but it was not to be used for anything else.

Corona Largest City Served Exclusively By Power Co.

Much of Electricity Is Used for War

Most large electrical systems are developed in and around some great center of population which makes inevitable their growth. The California Electric Power Company, which is active in this state, even today its territory, extensive as the state of Ohio in area, embraces no city with a population in excess of 10,000, and Corona is the largest city served exclusively by it.

History of Company

The Nevada, Mining and Milling Company, which was the predecessor in interest to the business and properties of the California Electric Power Company, was organized in Denver, Colorado, in 1904, for the purpose of developing hydro-electric power on Bishop Creek in California. The transmission to the mining camps of Tonopah and Goldfield. These camps at that time were being served with coal costing $12 per ton in carload lots and water for steam purposes costing 35 per cent of the cost of coal. The territory was absolutely devoid of local sources of fuel.

The business of transmitting electric power for long distances was then in its infancy and the first step in the building of a 105 miles of transmission line, one of the longest lines projected at the time over a very difficult country, requiring the crossing of the White Mountains at an altitude of 10,500 feet.

In 1911 the Southern Sierras Power Company was organized as a subsidiary to provide an outlet in Southern California for additional hydro-power capable of developing on Bishop Creek in California a territory, and to establish a more dependable market than that afforded by a purely mining and smelting industry.

The new company confronted numerous difficulties, which included the construction of a high-voltage steel tower transmission line of 228 miles, a longer distance than had ever before been attempted in a separate project in a settled desert country with but few existing demands for power beyond the Southern California area, sought to be served, could be reached.

Mrs. Mary Tucker Has Lived Here For 51 Years

Is Life President of Pioneer Association

Among the oldest of old-timers now living in Corona is Mrs. Mary J. Tucker, president-for-life of the Corona Pioneer association.

Mrs. Tucker, with her husband, the late Benjamin N. Tucker, and her daughter Effie, now Mrs. Staten, arrived in South Riverside May 2, 1891, coming by train from Danville, Illinois. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Humble, and her slater Mrs. Ida B. Frazer, had come previously. The Humbles lived at the corner of Ninth and Merrill streets. Mrs. Frazer is at present a resident of Julian, California.

Humble's Grand Land

Benjamin Tucker first worked at grading land "on the mesa" in preparation for the groves that were to be planted there. Afterward, he secured work with the Pacific Clay Manufacturing Co., at the "pipe works" which then was the first major industrial development of this section. He remained in that employment 19 years, until he bought the Pioneer transfer from George Fredericks. The equipment he secured in that deal consisted of a team of horses and a wagon.

Under the able management of Mrs. Tucker and her son, Elles, this concern has become an important motorized transfer business. For the last three years this business has been owned and operated long-time resident of Corona.

Accounted for above are Mrs. Tucker's four children, Effie, Elles A., Emmet R. and Ben H., the first born in Illinois the three sons in Corona.

All are residents of this city, where they are known as reliable, self-reliant, self-supporting citizens.

Mrs. Tucker's grandchildren are Gloria Allen, Louis Tucker, Towel Staten, Leora Street, Colson Staten, Betty Tucker and Beverly Tucker. Her great-grandchildren are Sherrill Street, Gerry Staten, Terry Lou Tucker and Ronald Allen.

A brother, Arthur Humble, is a long-time resident of Corona.

BUILDING BULLETIN

VOL. 5 WEDNESDAY, APRIL 29, 1942 NO. 4

38TH BIRTHDAY

OVER 38 years ago, on Feb. 1, 1904, the Corona Lumber Co. made its first bow to the people of this community. Few, indeed, are the firms of Corona who can duplicate this for years of service to Corona.

WE have tried to merit your confidence and patronage.

It may be that we have failed in some instances. We hope not. But 38 years in a any business anywhere usually will leave some hurts and misunderstandings on the records.

HIS two nephews active in the business for the past number of years... have grown up in the lumber business... F. B., with exception of a short interval, has been in the company since 1906... while H. S. has been continuous service since 1908.

It hardly seems possible that this concern has been doing business in Corona for over ONE-THIRD of a century, but the calendar does not lie. The record is straight. Feb. 1st marked our 38th birthday.

If there be any on the record of the Corona Lumber Co. we deeply regret it, of course.

But we confess to a lot of joy and satisfaction when we think of the friends we have and the fine patronage accorded us, and nice things said about us. Being in the retail lumber business has a lot of compensation that can't be measured in dollars and cents.

We thank you, therefore, for 38 years of friendship and pleasant business experience.

Incidentally we want you to remember that 38 years of experience adds to our ability to give real honest - to - goodness service in the building material line.

With Corona celebrating the Pioneer's Reunion, we know you will excuse us for indulging in a little sentiment ourselves. We are proud to have been able to see the town grow and thrive as it has during the years since this firm was established.

A. J. Ware has been at the head of the Corona Lumber Co. since it was established 38 years ago. He has seen many changes in this community, and has participated in a large number of them.

It should mean something to you Corona people to know that our service apparently has pleased, otherwise some other concern would be in business at our location instead of ourselves.

There is a noticeable difference between the first and present home of this pioneer firm. The same spirit of service and quality building materials prevail, however.

Corona Lumber Co.

Yours for another 38 years of service.

North British Columbia Asks Development of Resources

Area Is Called "Forgotten Country"

FRANCOIS LAKE, B. C. —(AP)—The hardy men who have carved homes and farms out of the virgin wilds of British Columbia's coastal North assert that dominion and provincial authorities are neglecting measures to exploit the wealth of what they call the "forgotten country."

They contend that untold mineral, coal, agricultural and timber wealth that could play a vital role in winning the war and in post-war rehabilitation is being allowed to stand idle because of lack of encouragement and facilities for development.

The resources awaiting development, they say, include:

- The largest anthracite deposits on the continent.
- Millions of acres of good agricultural land.
- Five to ten billion feet of standing timber.
- Electrical energy estimated at 400,000 horsepower.

the California coast and Alaska, he said.

The road, too, would open up half a million acres of good agricultural land in the lower section of a great north-south rectangle starting at Hazelton—the bunchgrass country of the "Trail of '98," where gold-mad prospectors could find feed for their pack ponies on their way to the Klondike.

The energy for tapping the resources would be supplied by the Davis, Soule and Naas rivers and Westlake lake, the hydroelectric potentialities of which are estimated at 600,000 horsepower.

In addition to the visible resources—agriculture and timber—there are known to be tungsten, molybdenum and deposits of other valuable minerals in this area.

Another source of wealth that would be opened up by the road would be tourism. The coastal area claims to have the finest fishing, big game hunting and scenery on the continent, but because of lack of roads, only a few sportsmen have been able to take advantage of them.

Rhode Island Boundary Settled in 260 Years

PROVIDENCE, R. I. —(AP)—The boundaries of the nation's smallest state — Rhode Island—weren't settled until 260 years after its founding.

The long delay was due mainly to the vaguely-worded deeds which the early settlers received from the Indians when they acquired land.

One early resident once remarked that in his day the boundaries might as well have been marked by "a bramble bush on the north, a bluejay on the south, a hive of bees on the west and 500 foxes with firebrands tied to their tails on the east."

Driver Unconscious, Car Takes Him Home

LIMA, O. — Herman Langenberg, 42, today boasted of a "self-driving" automobile.

When a motorcycle collided with his car the other day, he was knocked unconscious. When he came out of it, he was in his own front yard, still behind the wheel.

The automobile had traveled down the highway 100 yards, crossed a ditch and run up on his lawn.

Hunter Hangs Cap After Thief's Haul

PORTLAND, Ore. — When Emon Chaloupka returned the other day from visiting his son, Chick, a naval reservist enrolled in officers' training at the University of California, he found all his hunting equipment had been stolen. His two prized shotguns, his favorite deer rifle and 95 boxes of shells were gone.

Chaloupka was little consoled by the knowledge that they were insured.

"Maybe I could borrow a gun," he wailed, "but where could I get a single box of shells?"

Sgt. Gets Slapped Recruiting a Wac

DENVER, Col. —(AP)—First Sgt. Robert E. Payne is wondering if he is eligible for a Purple Heart. The sergeant, assigned to the Air-Wac recruiting team in Denver, recently approached a likely looking prospect on a street corner. He wanted to give her some literature on the Air-Wacs.

"Pardon me, miss—" he began. But that was as far as he got, because the likely-looking prospect hauled off and slapped the sergeant on the jaw.

Payne beat a hasty retreat leaving unfinished his sentence and his mission.

When a South Pacific leatherneck's girl calls off their romance, he's "just got the word" according to a Marine combat correspondent. Neighboring soldiers give their comrades the same dismal news with "My girl gave me the pink slip."

MOUNT HALE, N. H. — Mrs. Fred Girouard, wife of the Mount Hale lookout, strolled out one morning looking for game for the evening meal. As a result she has been laughing at the OPA ever since. She bagged an eight-point 200-pound buck just off the highway.

War Bonds: A Christmas present with a future

OUT AT the P. J. Weisel Silica plant—by the side of the road where once rumbled the old Butterfield Stages with California's first tourists—we are closing the books on Old 1943, a year to be remembered for its record production of our product to meet the demands of hundreds of new demands by glass manufacturers, especially with the change over from tin to glass in many uses—our product, the basic material for many essentials toward the winning of the war.

The year 1943 which brought many new and perplexing problems to be met and solved—thanks to a loyal group of employees and to whom we want to publicly express our sincere appreciation at the Holiday Season and to wish them success in 1944.

We send Holiday Good Wishes to our increasing list of patrons, who have also helped us make 1943 a successful year of production. Holiday Greetings to the understanding people of Corona and community who appreciate the value of our plant toward the industrial advancement of the area.

Never before in the history of Southern California have the hills of Temescal canyon poured out such a stream of raw material—a vital factor in keeping the war industries rolling out the finest quality of a finished product. We are proud of our contribution.

And so, the Holiday Season finds us grateful—to honor our co-workers and to remember those of our organization now in the Armed Service, and to wish them a winning fight and an early return to civilian work at the sound of victory throughout the world.

Looking into the future, our organization is planning to serve in a still greater and more efficient manner. . . These are Holiday Greetings.

APPENDIX C-3.89

The American scene is littered with various "weeklies" right down to "National Dog Bitch week". The weeklies are "National Newspaper Week" and while it was not entirely ignored by the Corona Daily Independent, it was not as much as a national creature over it either. Self-praise is so handy for an institution like a newspaper that we feel readers would resent too much tooting of our own horn.

Having been brought up in a newspaper family and having been educated for newspaper work, it would be a wonder if there are no strange nor glamorous aspects of the newspaper life in our eyes. Of course, personally we have had no such association with small city journalism and never worked on a large daily to see if they're anything like what is portrayed in the movies. However, dad worked on the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press for forty years and his late wife, Mom, worked on the largest and most powerful papers of the Middle West.

It is a pity that we never got to see him at the office frequently which gave us a pretty good idea of what a metropolitan newspaper was like. There one evening a few months ago we visited in the editorial offices of the Los Angeles Times.

The rooms were not foggy with smoke. The desks were littered with paper. A half-dozen phones did not jangle on every desk. The reporters were not shouting back and forth in vulgar and obscene language. Nobody yelled "Scop!"

Instead the room was brightly lit and orderly. The only sound was the click of typewriters. Two or three men were gathered by one desk talking over something. Another man was scribbling there was a rushed feeling, it was not scatter-brained and unorganized.

Big newspapers are big business with millions of dollars tied up in them and they are not conducted in the slipshod manner which Hollywood would lead movie-goers to believe.

Neither are newspapermen the cultures which the movies have painted them. All newspapermen present this characteristic. They are to get the news and print it. The news may not always be beautiful, but the newspaperman does not create the beauty. His job is to get the news and print it. The news may not always be beautiful, but the newspaperman does not create the beauty. His job is to get the news and print it.

The big newspaper, and to some extent even the small, is a marvel of cooperative effort. The writing in the metropolitan newspaper comes from all over the world with observers watching the scene from Oslo to Bombay, never travels across the sea and land with the speed of light. Other writers devote their time to writing editorials which interpret the news for the man in the street, to writing articles on how to fix yesterday's leftovers so that hubby will eat them, to giving a play-by-play description of a football game, to telling you what movie is good and what is not, to telling you what to do for your health, to reporting what happened on the stock market.

Artists draw the comics which are the greatest single attraction in the newspaper. Cartoonists get the world over take pictures so that you can see for yourself. Advertising men and editors put these pictures into the commercial news in the form of advertisements. A large force of expert printers and pressmen put this vast paper into production. Armies of newsboys circulate it through the city and into other cities. And you expect your newspapers to arrive on time—and usually it does.

Yours for a friendly city

$168,000 Hearing Plant at Naval Hospital O.K.'d

Sun Decks for 30 Wards; Other Additions

Apparently an expansive construction program is ahead for the U. S. Naval Hospital here.

Latest word from Washington would indicate that the Naval hospital in Corona is a virtually permanent government program.

Secretary of Navy James B. Forrestal has just announced that the United States Navy has approved a public works project for the U. S. Naval Hospital of Corona for $168,000 for a heating system.

This advice was contained in a telegram received by the Corona Daily Independent Saturday from Congressman John Phillip, who also advises that there have been approved for the Corona Naval Hospital:

- Sewage disposal.
- 800 feet of ramps.
- 5,000 feet of concrete curbing.
- Sun decks for 30 ward buildings.
- Improvements for the central bake shop.
- Elevator and hoistery equipment and linoleum for floors.

A work stoppage of five weeks ended yesterday at the Hudson Motor Car Co., Detroit, although the company's strike roll still bore the names of 429,000 idle workers.

New model cars once again began to roll off Ford Motor Co. assembly lines for the first time in almost a month.

Hack's Single and Greenberg's Error Give Cubs Victory

CHICAGO (AP)—St. Louis' single to left field and Hank Greenberg's error sent Billy Schuster all the way home from first in the twelfth inning today to give the Chicago Cubs an 8 to 7 victory over the Detroit Tigers and square the 1945 World Series at three games each.

With one man down in the twelfth inning of a long and tense battle in which the Cubs had come from behind only to have Greenberg tie the score in the eighth with a home run, Frank Secoy, a pinch hitter, started the winning rally with a single to center field in the twelfth inning.

Hiroyito Knew in Advance of Pearl Harbor Stab Plan

TOKYO (AP)—Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni said today that Emperor Hirohito knew in advance of the Japanese plan to attack Pearl Harbor, but had "understood" a formal declaration of war would be transmitted to the United States before the raid began.

Higashi-Kuni, retiring premier and cousin of Hirohito, revealed that the emperor did not sign the Imperial rescript formalizing the declaration of war until 11:30 a.m., Dec. 8, 1941 Tokyo time — eight hours after the first bombs fell on Pearl Harbor.

TOKYO (AP)—Guards of the First Cavalry division tonight surrounded the Japanese navy ministry after United States officials said evidence had been discovered leading to the belief that hoards of loot from Japan's lost empire might be stored in official government buildings.

A large announcement said military officials had learned that "precious metal," presumably stolen in Japan's years of military conquest, was in the navy ministry building.

It was reliably reported that more troops may be placed shortly at other Japanese buildings to guard against hoards.
